

Senate Probe Group Blames Chicago Police In Strike Riot

La Follette Committee Charges 'Excessive Force'
REPORTS TO SENATE
Officers Attacked Without Warning, Senators Find

Washington—(U)—The LaFollette civil liberties committee said today that Chicago police used "excessive force" and showed "the most careless indifference to human life and suffering" in breaking up a Memorial day demonstration of steel strike sympathizers.

The report, filed with the senate by Chairman LaFollette (P-Wis.), followed a committee investigation of the encounter near the gates of the Republic Steel plant, in which 10 demonstrators were killed, and scores injured on last May 30.

A coroner's verdict last Tuesday holding the deaths to be "justifiable homicide."

The committee found that "the police attack came without warning" after "the first shots came from a police revolver."

Speakers at a strike mass meeting just before the clash said nothing "which could be even remotely construed as an incitement to assault the police or to capture the plant," the report said.

Double Need for Arms

"We find that the provocation for the police assault did not go beyond abusive language, and the throwing of isolated missiles from the rear ranks of the marchers," the committee asserted.

"We believe that it might have been possible to disperse the crowd without the use of weapons."

The committee added that "uncontradicted photographic and oral evidence, corroborated by the admissions of the police themselves, established that their treatment of the injured was characterized by the most careless indifference to human life and suffering."

"Wounded prisoners of war might have expected and received greater solicitude," it related.

Wounded Neglected

"By the frank admission of all the police, no attempt whatsoever was made to render first aid on the field . . . Wounded and dying strikers were unconsciously thrown into police patrols along with uninjured prisoners."

"The record shows that each patrol wagon was equipped with a stretcher, yet the evidence is clear that not a single stretcher was employed to remove the wounded from the field."

"Indeed, as the photographs established, the police dragged seriously wounded, unconscious men along the ground with no more care than would be employed on a corpse," the committee charged.

The report was voluminously illustrated with pictures taken by press photographers and excerpts from a newsreel.

Questions Gas Source

It declared that "a number of the police armed themselves with hatchet handles, apparently obtained from the plant," and that Captain James L. Mooney, police commander, did not know where his men obtained the tear gas they threw.

"No gas owned by the police department was employed," the committee added, while the Republic Steel plant was "abundantly supplied" with gas bombs.

Some of the strike demonstrators "carried sticks, clubs or other similar weapons," the report said, but "arming of the crowd was not so general that it can be attributed to any preconceived design to assault the police."

Thus, the evidence not only refutes the police charge that the parade assumed a military character, but establishes, on the contrary, that it lacked all of the elements which would indicate a preconceived plan to employ force.

Weapons From Dump

The committee said that many of the clubs, stones, and pieces of scrap iron which the police claimed the strikers had used were collected from a dump.

Repeat of Arkansas "monkey-law" may fail. The "monkey-law" forbids teaching that man rose from lower animals. Those who favor the law say it didn't. That seems reasonable. Wounded Man Faces Return To Texas Cell

Farmer and Oil Field Worker Tell How They Shot Desperadoes

EXTRADITION SOUGHT
Gunmen Shot After They Fell Asleep in Parked Automobile

Hugo, Okla. — (U)—Return to a Texas prison farm loomed today for Roy "Pete" Traxler as the slippery southwest gunman continued to withstand the effects of a bullet wound over the heart.

His companion in a 12-day flight lay in a morgue, a victim of the desperadoes' own guns. The companion, Fred Tindol, was slain and Traxler was shot by two hostages the outlaws had kidnapped in their flight from almost 1,000 officers in southern Oklahoma.

Frank Trimmer, 50, a farmer, and J. E. Denton, 44, oil field worker, snatched guns from the men's sides when the exhausted fugitives dozed in a car near Boswell, Okla.

After being brought to a hospital here and placed under armed guard, Traxler appeared bitter against the man who wounded him.

"I tried to tell the guy he didn't need to shoot me because I was all through," Traxler said. "I knew it. I didn't have a chance. But I just wasted my breath. He didn't wait for me to say anything. He just shot. I fell out of the car to keep him from killing me."

Trimmer and Denton both fired at Tindol, then Denton turned his gun on Traxler.

Kidnaped From Home

Trimmer, who was driving, was kidnapped from his home and forced to drive his car, after the two fugitives had ditched the car in which they kidnapped Denton.

"Traxler told Trimmer to pull up at the roadside," said Denton, "and we would wait until it got dark."

Denton, riding in the back seat with Tindol, said he saw Tindol's gun on the seat, Traxler's gun was in the seat as he sat beside Trimmer, Traxler dozed.

The two hostages exchanged glances in the rear view mirror, and both grabbed for the guns.

"When I got the car parked and saw Traxler had dozed off," said Trimmer, "I glanced back at Denton and saw Tindol was asleep. Both of us grabbed for their guns. Both of us shot Tindol at the same time then Denton shot Traxler."

"Traxler begged us to get him a doctor. He said he was afraid he might bleed to death. After a while he started threatening us. He said he knew he was going to die."

As four armed guards watched over Traxler in his hospital room here, Governor James V. Allred of Texas announced he would ask extradition.

Income Taxes Up In Badger State

65 Per Cent Increase Reported During First Half of 1937

Madison—(U)—A 65 per cent increase in state income tax collections during the first six months of 1937 was reported today by Joel S. Hendrickson, chief of the state income tax division.

This heavy increase far exceeded estimates previously made by state officials, and forecasts a prosperous financial period during the current biennium which began July 1.

The comparative figures: 1937 collections—$9,033,916; 1936 collections—$5,478,035.

During the entire 12 month fiscal period which ended June 30, income taxes paid a total of $18,984,506 in taxes from all sources, including the normal income tax, the 60 per cent surtax for old age pensions and the 21 per cent privilege dividend tax.

For the previous fiscal year the same sources yielded $12,578,567. The LaFollette administration was able this year to finance a heavily increased budget of $66,500,000 only through re-enactment of the 60 per cent surtax and the privilege dividend tax.

The surtax, which goes exclusively to the state for budget balancing purposes, produced $2,374,323 in the last fiscal year and in the preceding year, $1,305,832.

Total 1937 collections under the dividend tax were $1,119,914, whereas the year before they amounted to only $408,235.

Madison—(U)—The state department of agriculture and markets will hold a general hearing in Madison Saturday, July 31, to consider all problems involved in the stabilization of prices in regulated milk markets.

The general session will mark the climax of individual hearings held over the state.

To determine whether any changes should be made in existing orders, Commissioner Fred Schulthies has conducted hearings at Madison, Milwaukee and Waukegan. He is at Kenosha today, will go to Racine tomorrow and will be at Green Bay for a hearing July 30.

Keshena, Wis. — (U)—Thirty-one trailer units, representing 14 states, were encamped today at Menominee fairgrounds near this village where the annual summer reunion of the Tin Can Tourists of the World will begin July 28. The convention will end Aug. 8.

The Illinois contingent, with eight trailer units, is the largest so far. There are trailers from Michigan, Georgia, Wisconsin, Florida, North Carolina, Mississippi, Virginia, Ohio, Tennessee, New Jersey and California.

The fairgrounds in the heart of the Menominee Indian reservation will house 1,000 trailers in another week, organization officials estimated.

Chinese Won't Quit Positions Near Peiping

Refusal to Evacuate Adds
To Gravity of Sino-Jap Situation

JAPANESE ARE BLAMED
Accused of Failure to Carry Out Their Part Of Truce

Tientsin — (U)—Anti-Japanese troops of the 37th Chinese army division were reported today to have precipitated the Sino-Japanese crisis to new depths by a determined refusal to evacuate their positions west of Peiping.

The Chinese were said not only to have stubbornly refused to abandon the positions commanding the Marco Polo highway bridges across the Yungting river but also to be again manning their entrenchments in the village of Wanpinghsien.

A truce yesterday between local Chinese and Japanese military authorities was thought to have ended the crisis two weeks to the day after a clash between the troops at Marco Polo bridge strained Sino-Japanese relations to the breaking point.

Started to Withdraw

The 37th division began carrying out the agreement for mutual withdrawal of Chinese and Japanese troops by evacuating the walled city of Wanpinghsien, western suburb of Peiping. The truce called for them to hand over the entire area of hostilities to officers entrusted with maintenance of civil order.

Alleged failure of the Japanese to carry out their part of the agreement, however, was said to have caused the Chinese evacuation to be halted abruptly. Full of resentment at "Japanese trickery," they were reported to have started moving troops into the area again.

The commanding officers of the 28th Chinese army, of which the thirty-seventh division is a unit, were said to be desirous of carrying out the withdrawal, but the officers and men of the 37th division for their firm opposition to the Japanese—were reported to have ignored the orders.

Japanese claimed that sporadic firing punctuated the early hours today but was halted later.

Houghteling Named Immigration Chief

Washington—(U)—President Roosevelt nominated James L. Houghteling, Chicago today to succeed the late Colonel Daniel W. MacDonagh as commissioner of immigration.

Houghteling, former newspaper executive, is a cousin by marriage of the president. A native of Chicago, he married Laura Delano of Washington in 1917.

Houghteling joined the staff of the New York Evening Post in 1920. He went with the Chicago Daily News in 1921, but left after a few months to become chief editorial writer for the Chicago Tribune Post. In 1923 he rejoined the Chicago Daily News and was vice president and treasurer from 1927 to 1931.

Helble Is Delegate to Northwest Celebration

Madison—(U)—Five citizen members of Wisconsin's delegation to the Northwest Territory celebration were named today by Governor LaFollette.

They are Nevin S. James, Oshkosh; Herbert Helble, Appleton; Stanley Slagis, Edgerton; Frank Bixby, New Richmond; and H. J. Levi, Stevens Point.

They will attend the fête, to be held later this year at a date and place yet to be announced, with the following legislators: Senators Fred Riker (P), Madison, and G. Erle Ingram (P), Eau Claire; Assemblyman M. H. Hall (P), Superior; Donald McDowell (R), Soldiers Grove; and H. S. Halvorsen (P), Westby.

Sam Ginsberg Is Facing
Trial on Federal Charge

Milwaukee—(U)—E. J. Koelzer, assistant federal attorney, said today that Sam Ginsberg, sentenced to a year in the house of correction last February on a charge of stealing merchandise from interstate trucks running between Chicago and Shawano, Wis., was under federal indictment in Chicago for conspiracy to violate the federal bankruptcy law.

Koelzer, who has been asked to start removal proceedings, said he would begin as soon as Ginsberg completes his term here.

Liberal Proposes British Surrender
Of Palestine Mandate to United States

London — (U)—Geoffrey Mander, liberal member of parliament, proposed today that Great Britain hand over to the United States its mandate over Palestine, Jewish homeland.

Mander gave written notice that he will ask Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain Tuesday whether "in view of the British government's unwillingness to continue to administer its mandate for Palestine" the prime minister will "consider the advisability of proposing to the League of Nations that it should be offered to the United States."

The British plan to parcel Palestine between Arabs and Jews was sidetracked in the house of commons in a compromise move after long and bitter debate.

A delay which would permit further study of the plan before final parliamentary action, submitting it to the League of Nations was decided upon in a rising vote by the chamber.

The government sought forthright parliamentary approval of its scheme but opposition to the partition brought a compromise.

The compromise provided that the partition recommendations be laid before the league "with a view to enabling his majesty's government, after adequate inquiry, to present to parliament a definite scheme taking into full account all the recommendations."

The compromise came after Colonial Secretary William G. A.

Senate Returns Roosevelt Bill to Committee, 70-20; Measure Is Believed Dead

Senate Overrides Roosevelt Veto on Farm Loan Rates

Ballot Is 71 to 19, More Than Required Two-Thirds Majority

Washington—(U)—The senate enacted over President Roosevelt's veto today a measure to extend "emergency" interest rates on farm loans.

It voted to override the veto 71 to 19, more than the two-thirds majority required. The house previously had overridden Mr. Roosevelt's veto 260 to 98.

The new law extends for one year the 31 per cent rate on approximately $2,000,000,000 of federal land bank bonds, and provides for a 4 per cent rate the following fiscal year.

It also reduces from 5 to 4 per cent for two years the interest on about $800,000,000 of land bank commissioner loans, secured largely by second mortgages.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, in his first major speech as majority leader, urged unsuccessfully that the veto be sustained. He said the bill would impose a $40,000,000 annual burden on the treasury.

But Senator McNary (R-Ore.), minority leader, told the senate he was "not in favor of trying to balance the budget with funds from the farmer who has a mortgage on his farm." He asserted the president had made "no substantial effort" to balance the budget.

Vetoing the bill, Mr. Roosevelt contended there was "no justification for continued government subsidy" of the farm debtors.

The average rate in the loan contracts with the approximately 640,000 farm borrowers was given 5.07 per cent during the debate.

A coalition of 33 Democrats, 15 Republicans and 3 independents voted to override the president's veto. Eighteen Democrats and a lone Republican, Vandenberg, of Michigan, voted to sustain the veto.

LaFollette (P) and Duffy (D) of Wisconsin, voted to override. Brown (D) of Michigan voted to sustain the veto.

Plans to Press Civil Suit Against Rosenberg

Milwaukee—(U)—City Attorney Walter J. Mattison said today he would prosecute a pending civil suit against I. J. Rosenberg, president of the closed Liberty State bank, profits alleged to have been made illegally through bond deals financed with city funds from 1928 to 1930.

The estate of John I. Drew, former city treasurer, also was named as a defendant.

No amount of damages was set in the suit. The city asked for an accounting of the moneys used and profits made, and for a determination of damages based on those figures.

Rosenberg was released from Waupun penitentiary Tuesday after serving nearly four years for falsifying bank records. He now is under arrest on a federal income tax charge.

Michigan Emergency Relief Chief Resigns

Lansing, Mich. — (U)—Governor Murphy today accepted the resignation of Dr. William Haber as state emergency relief administrator, effective Aug. 1.

The legislature in adopting bills revising the welfare and relief set-up in Michigan, had written into the laws provisions designed to prevent Haber from holding any office in connection with administration of the welfare work.

Haber frequently had been in conflict with both Republican and Democratic politicians over matters of policy and with board of supervisors members in the counties who resented state centralization of welfare activities.

Continue Efforts to Put End to Walkout

Madison — (U)—Voyta Wabret, chairman of the state labor board, said yesterday all parties to a Creamery Package Manufacturing company dispute at Ft. Atkinson had agreed to continue negotiations toward a settlement in a conference today at the Jefferson courthouse.

Wabret added that the resumption of a labor board hearing of labor law violation charges made against the Creamery Package company and the Ft. Atkinson Law and Order league would be postponed from today until tomorrow.

Parties to the dispute are officials of the Creamery Package company and the United Automobile Workers union (CIO) which has been on strike since May and which complained to the labor board that the company refused to bargain collectively with it. Also involved is the law and order league, headed by A. T. Loxan of Ft. Atkinson, which the union claims has been engaged in activities unfair to labor.

LaVerne Marks Taken to Central State Hospital

Madison — (U)—The secretary of state's office received notification from the board of control today that LaVerne Marks, life-term convict recently involved in a stabbing affray at Waupun state prison, has been committed to Central State Hospital for the Insane at Waupun.

The transfer is temporary, for observation pending proceedings by a commission in lunacy.

Marks was sentenced from Shawano county last August for the murder of his boyfriend friend, Robert Bernstein of Janesville.

Campaign Begun to Complete Program Before Adjourning

Senate Leaders Fight
Growing Sentiment to Conclude Session

Washington—(U)—A group of the senate's most ardent champions of the administration organized a campaign today for completion of the president's legislative program at this session of congress.

Senator Bone (D-Wash.) said the members would try to combat a growing sentiment to adjourn immediately after settlement of the court reorganization controversy.

The group will insist that congress stay in session, he said, until it passes at least three major measures—the housing, wage-hour, and farm bills.

Senator McNary (R-Ore.) the minority leader, said, however, he would oppose action on any major legislation.

Favors Adjournment

"The time has come to quit and go home," McNary said. "We should study these other things and consider them next session."

Senator Pope (D-Idaho) who introduced the farm bill providing for more stringent production control, declared his opposition to "a stampede adjournment."

He said he believed the housing and wage-hour proposals could be enacted with little debate, but suggested the farm bill might be held over until 1938.

A number of other administration supporters—many of them first-termers—were expected to join the stay-in-session movement.

Part of another administration objective—government reorganization—may come up Friday in the house. The immediate bill would give President Roosevelt six $10,000-a-year assistants.

House and senate subcommittees are at work on other phases of the reorganization program.

Ford Co. Fails in Move to Dismiss Board Complaint

Attempts to Disprove Allegations of Unfair
Labor Practices

Detroit — (U)—The Ford Motor company, overruled in its move to obtain dismissal of a national labor relations board complaint charging unfair labor practices, started an attempt to disprove the allegations today.

Its first witness before the NLRB trial examiner hearing the charges was Arthur Ogle, Detroit News reporter, who testified he was with Harry Bennett, Ford personnel director, from 12:30 p. m. until 3 o'clock on May 26, the day United Automobile Workers' organizers were beaten and chased from gates of Ford's Dearborn plant.

The NLRB complaint charges the Ford company instigated "brutal and malicious assaults" on the organizers.

Yesterday John Godleski, a Ford employee called by the board, testified he heard a man he identified as Bennett call "good work, boys" to two participants in the fighting. He named the two participants as Ford employees.

Godleski did not definitely state what time it was he heard the remark, which he said occurred after the union men were beaten.

The disturbance at Gate 4 of the huge River Rouge plant, which followed attempts by union members to distribute handbills, occurred during the hours Ogle testified he was with Bennett.

Attorney Laurence A. Knapp placed in the record, over objections of Louis J. Colombo, chief Ford counsel, a copy of a speech broadcast June 13 by William J. Cameron of the Ford Motor company, in which Knapp said Cameron referred to "amateur revolutionists" and "tactics learned from Moscow."

Moving for dismissal of the complaint, Colombo renewed arguments that the Ford employees named in the NLRB charges were not involved in interstate commerce and that the board had no jurisdiction, and added the contention that witnesses had failed to establish any allegation contained in the complaint.

"Overruled," Examiner John T. Lindsay commented.

La Crosse Tavernkeeper Wounded but Is Expected to Recover

LaCrosse — (U)—Police said today Joseph L. Williams, 28, hitch-hiker from New Orleans, La., had admitted shooting Clarence Voves, 40, LaCrosse tavernkeeper, who Williams said, made indecent advances. The shooting occurred on Pettibone island.

Williams, who was taken into custody by police a half-hour after the shooting at LaCrosse, Minn., told police Voves picked him up near LaCrosse as he was hitch-hiking to Minneapolis in search of work. Police detained Williams without charge.

Police quoted Voves as saying Williams asked him for the time and that as he reached for his watch Williams pulled out a gun.

Police were given a description of the New Orleans man by Voves who was able to drive his car to a LaCrosse hospital. Hospital attaches said the bullet entered Voves' liver, but they said they expected he would recover.

Urges General Resident Fishing License Law

Madison — (U)—A resolution urging legislative enactment of a general resident fishing license law was adopted by county conservation committee late yesterday.

Concluding a two-day annual conference, the committee—five from each county—agreed to request their senators and assemblymen to license care pole fishermen as well as rod and reel users who now must pay a $1 fee.

Sponsors urged consideration of the proposal at the forthcoming special session of the legislature, but it was considered unlikely it would be included in the governor's call.

Fishing regulations for the ensuing year were discussed yesterday. Few changes in present laws were recommended.

Judiciary Group Told to Draft Bill on Lower Courts

8-POINT PROGRAM
Supreme Court Will Not Be Affected by
New Bill

Washington—(U)—The senate virtually killed President Roosevelt's supreme court enlargement proposal today for this congressional session.

It voted to send the administration court bill back to its judiciary committee. The vote for returning the measure to committee was 70 to 20.

The committee was instructed to prepare a new measure affecting the lower courts only and report it to the senate within 10 days. The new measure, based on an eight-point program worked out in committee this morning, would not affect the supreme court in any way.

Senator Logan (D-Ky.) made the motion to return the bill to committee. He acted upon instructions from the judiciary committee, with whose plan of ending the court dispute both administration chiefs and leaders of the court bill opposition were reported to be in substantial agreement.

Sixteen Republicans and one Farmer-Laborite, Shipstead of Minnesota, joined with 33 Democrats in carrying the court bill back to committee.

The motion was opposed by 18 Democrats and Senators LaFollette (P-Wis.) and Lundeen (F. La. Minn.). LaFollette announced that Senator Norris (I-Neb.) also would have opposed had he been present.

Council Asks New Rate on Water for Out-of-City Users

Orders Water Commission To Prepare Charge Schedule

What Council Did:

Ordered water commission to prepare a new schedule of rates for out-of-city water consumers.

Approved a street committee report providing for a number of minor sidewalk and street projects.

Voted reimbursement of 64 cents per running foot to College avenue property owners who build new walks.

Approved several license applications.

Referred a Fourth ward wading pool petition to the park board.

The council last night ordered the city water commission to prepare a new rate schedule for application to out-of-city property now receiving city water.

The new rate schedule, which will be designed to fix the total paid by out-of-city water users at a figure at least equal to the outlay inside the city limits, will be submitted by the water commission to the council. If approved there it will go to the Wisconsin Public Service commission.

The motion ordering the water commission to prepare a rate was taken after a session as a committee of the whole, but a brief discussion in open council, before the aldermen went into committee, reversed the background.

Recently the council approved a report by the street and bridge committee which provided that the water commission discontinue service to residents outside the city.

Asks Clarification

When Oscar Schmieg of the water commission explained that the commission wished clarification of the order, guiding the commission in its policy toward present out-of-city consumers as well as toward those seeking service in the future, Mayor Goodland explained that it was the intention of the committee to confine the limitation of service only to new applicants.

An amendment to make the previous action specify new applicants only was introduced but when Alderman Land suggested that all action be deferred until after the scheduled conference with the entire water commission, the motion to amend was dropped.

Pay Higher Rate

Schmieg explained that the water department had laid no mains outside the city but that the out-of-city consumers in question were those in the town of Grand Chute on the north side of portions of Wisconsin avenue. These residents pay 10 cent more for their water, and permission to charge a higher margin will be sought, he indicated.

Alderman Keller suggested that these consumers be required to pay their share of the cost of the main, as city users do, but Schmieg expressed the opinion that because these people reside in the town of Grand Chute, not such assessment can be made by the city.

Both Mayor Goodland and Alderman De Land contended that while the out-of-city consumers provide additional revenue at no additional overhead for the water department, it is not right for property owners to build just outside the city limits, avoid payment of city taxes, and still receive service from the city water department. They suggested there might not be such an inducement to build "just over the line" if it was made known that city water would not be available.

Go Into Committee

Much of the remainder of the discussion was confined to the committee of the water department, which water commissioners as well as members of the council were present.

At the opening of last night's session, the council spent 25 minutes whipping through routine business that was confined largely to committee reports.

A lengthy report of the street and bridge committee, providing for a number of minor street and sidewalk projects, was approved after practically no discussion. It provides for construction of sidewalks on portions of Prospect avenue, Summit, Cavanaugh and Mason streets. It also orders that the engineer investigate and report on the matter of raising the walk on a portion of Eighth street and provides that property owners on W. Lawrence street between Douglas and Bounds streets be ordered to raise and repair their walks. Ditching, grading and cinderling of a half-block of Eighth street and oiling of portions of W. Harris, N. Lawe and N. Union streets was approved.

To Fill Ravine

In a subsequent motion, the city attorney was ordered to prepare easements to be obtained from property owners permitting filling of the ravine south of W. Fifth street between S. Walnut and S. State streets.

A report by the city attorney explaining that only a resolution ordering the street department to erect the proper signs is necessary to prohibit parking on the east side of S. Appleton street between W. Prospect avenue and W. Lawrence street, was approved.

The council also took favorable action on a board of public works recommendation to reimburse College avenue property owners 64 cents per running foot for all new sidewalk built and on a police and license committee report relative to a number of license applications.

Grant Permits

A second-hand store license was granted to W. B. Stroebe, 325 N. Appleton street, a garage license to George Tennie, Greenville, a draylayer license to John Mc-

Recommends Law to Keep Streets Clean

An ordinance to prohibit littering of streets and sidewalks with paper or other rubbish was recommended by Dr. J. C. Troxel, city health commissioner, in a report to the common council last night.

Dr. Troxel stated in his report that he had investigated the matter of throwing ice cream wrappers in the streets, referred to him at the July 15 meeting of the council, and found that such a condition is not covered by local ordinances or by statutory rulings. The recommendation was filed.

Nine Fair Trade Practice Codes Expire Saturday

Only Hope of Early Revival Is Inclusion in Special Session Call

Madison—(U)—Nine state fair trade practice codes, the last survivors of the system that began with the NRA, will pass out of existence Saturday through failure of the legislature to sanction their continuance.

Wisconsin was the last state in the Union to adhere to a general code method of regulating hours, wages and prices after the collapse of the national industrial recovery act, although its legislation since has been copied in some states.

The only chance the system may be revived here in the near future is that Governor LaFollette may decide to include the subject in the call for an impending special session of the legislature.

A new code law was among the mass of proposals that died automatically when the regular session ended July 2.

The state fair trade practice commission, the administrative agency with a pay roll of some 30 persons, will die with the codes.

100,000 Affected

Members of this commission said approximately 100,000 workers and employers will be free from state regulation after Saturday—a great many of them against their wishes.

The governor's office and commission headquarters have been flooded with requests for re-enactment of the codes.

The commission foresaw slight chance there could be any voluntary continuance of the trade agreements because a literal interpretation of state and federal law makes them illegal.

The codes about to expire cover the following trades and industries: Barbering, cleaning and dyeing; painting, paperhanging and decorating; shoe repairing; window cleaning; bowling parlors; highway construction; crushed stone, sand and gravel industry; the mason, concrete and carpenter branch of the general construction industry.

The Wisconsin code law has had a stormy career almost from its inception. Its original intent was to supplement the NRA, covering intrastate industries.

The supreme court set the act aside about two years after its adoption in 1933 because the exercise of the power granted under it, was invested in industry. The trade and industrial leaders themselves were the ones to initiate the codes. This was held to be a delegation of legislative power.

The 1935 legislature corrected the situation by requiring the governor to initiate codes.

By executive order Governor LaFollette abandoned the title of the administrative body, the Wisconsin Recovery commission and substituted "The fair trade practice commission", of which Lawrence C. Whitte and Fred M. Wylie are the members. Code administration was financed by assessments against the industries covered.

Hugh, taxi-cab licenses to the C. F. Smith Livery and Transfer company and the Yellow Cab company, and tavern operators' licenses to Henry Bogenschutz 902 N. Harrison street; George Schaefer, 1608 S. Lawe street; Henry F. Schwalbach, route 3; Gordon Welton, E. Calumet street and Wesley Prentice, 618 E. Pacific street. The approved committee recommendation also provided that minor operator's license be granted to Marilyn Zuehlke.

A petition by Fourth ward residents for construction of a wading pool in Telulah park was referred without comment to the park board and the application of Josephine Wolfgram, 1216 S. Madison street, for a license to operate a second-hand store was referred to the police and license committee.

When a committee report, based on an inspection by Chief George P. McGilgan of the fire department and L. M. Schindler, city engineer, revealed that an unoccupied house on S. Memorial drive between Fifth and Sixth streets is in no danger of collapse, Alderman Keller obtained action to assure boarding of the doors and windows.

Cannot be Razed

The committee report, which will be sent to persons from whom complaints have been received, states that while the building is not fit for human habitation unless repairs are made and has been so placarded the structure cannot be razed by the city.

In response to Keller's query about power to close the building to keep out trespassers, City Attorney Hoeft explained that such precautions can be taken, but only after the owners or their representatives have been given sufficient notice. Keller's motion that such notice be issued was approved.

Leviton May be Speaker at Water Carnival August 1

State Treasurer Will Fill Engagement if Governor Cannot

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—Solomon Levitan, veteran Wisconsin state treasurer, and one of the oldest leaders of the Progressive party, will be the feature speaker at the Fremont water carnival Aug. 1 if Governor Philip F. LaFollette is unable to be present. Ray Zuehlke, Fremont, announced here Wednesday.

The committee promoting the community festival at Fremont has arranged that either the governor or Mr. Levitan will address the crowd expected to attend, and to award the trophy to the winner of the Governor's National Championship Outboard races, one of the principal events in the 2-day show. Because the governor was doubtful that he would be able to be present, due to his scheduled appearance at a birthday celebration of the Iowa Farmer-Labor party in Des Moines on July 31, it is likely that Mr. Levitan will appear.

Governor LaFollette yesterday completed the job of extending personal invitations by letter to 47 state governors to send a representative driver of their respective states to enter the outboard motor boat races.

"The driver of your choice will, I know, enjoy the competition on the splendid race course, and he will incidentally be visiting one of the beautiful summer playgrounds of Wisconsin," Governor LaFollette wrote.

"The special trophy, which is a coveted prize in this particular race, will again be a traveling award," he said.

Job Placements Increasing Here

Private Industry Absorbing Greater Number Of Unemployed

Job placements in private industry through the Wisconsin State Employment Service office here are increasing rapidly this year, F. R. Gehrke, manager, stated today.

Including both temporary and permanent employment, 1,108 placements were made in private industry during May in the district comprising Outagamie, Waupaca and Shawano counties, a gain of 744 over the corresponding month of 1936, Gehrke said.

Most of the activity was in the Appleton area and the total number of placements included more permanent than temporary jobs. A greater number of jobs available combined with increased use of the office by employers to accomplish the gain in placements. Employers who obtain temporary help through the office often return to it for their permanent help, Gehrke stated.

File Incorporation Papers of New Firm

Articles of incorporation of Signer and Stroebe, Inc., 827 W. College avenue, have been filed with A. L. Collier, county register of deeds. The firm will sell, operate and let for hire motor vehicles of all kinds. The incorporation shows 200 shares of capital stock at no par value. Signers of the articles are C. C. Signer, Earl C. Stroebe and J. R. Joyce.

Robber Seizes $225 in Milwaukee Drug Store

Milwaukee—(U)—A stranger slipped a cooling drink at the Willis Pharmacy last night and then walked around the fountain.

"Don't bother with small change—and no checks," he ordered as he threatened Ken Des Jardine, 27, store manager, two clerks and a customer with a revolver. He walked out with $225 in currency.

Sewage Plant Constructed to Meet Varying Treatment Requirements

The sewage disposal plant, which will be formally opened Friday, Saturday and Sunday, has been built with sufficient operating flexibility within practical plant scale limits to meet varying requirements for treating sewage, according to Clarence Baetz, superintendent.

Investigations and studies of the Fox river conditions indicated the existence of a degree of pollution which requires only partial treatment of the sewage before it enters the stream. During unusual dry summer months when extreme low flows occur in the river, a higher degree of treatment is required to permit the proper assimilation of the sewage by the waterway.

The treatment plant, according to Baetz is designed to handle the human sewage of 32,500 people estimated at 4.1 million gallons per day and in addition 5.9 million gallons per day of industrial sewage, making a total of 10 million gallons daily.

The capacity of the plant is ample to take care of the present as well as the near future needs of the city, the superintendent said. Substantially larger capacities are provided for in the intercepting sewer system as these are works that cannot easily be enlarged with the development of the city.

CAB DRIVER BEATEN IN OMAHA

John Little, a Yellow cab driver, is shown here as he was led away from a battle in Omaha in which Little was pulled from his cab and beaten by men who police said were strikers. Three other drivers were also beaten and a cab overturned within a few minutes after the company put the cars on the street following a three-week labor dispute.

Night Maneuvers Occupy Guards at Camp Douglas

Camp Douglas—We are getting so good down here that we are ahead of our own schedule now. In other words we worked hard enough Monday that Tuesday we enjoyed a rest period. We started out by truck Monday night on our first night maneuver of the year. Our truck convoy traveled out in the country a few miles and then waited for darkness, then drove on with out showing lights. It was not a new procedure to the old timers but the new men were quite surprised to see just how the regiment could be moved around at night.

We fellows who traveled to Michigan for the Second army maneuvers last year, knew that we could do a lot of work at night, that at first thought seems impossible. When our convoy reached its destination, we were detrucked and held in reserve for a short time and then were sent in to support the advance guard on a defensive problem.

Send Support

The first platoon gave their support to Company C and the second platoon supported Company A. The guns were put into position and changed about as the advance guard was moved. There were several inspectors walking about questioning us on our operations and checking things in general, and we of course gained a lot of first class knowledge regarding night warfare. After the problem had been worked out "recall" was sounded and the regiment was assembled and marched into camp. We older fellows knew where we were after a few minutes had been taken to get our bearings—but the newer men got quite a surprise when they found that we had to walk only about two miles to get back to camp.

No Smoking

We had traveled to our starting point in a round about route and therefore it seemed as though we were miles from camp. On the maneuver there was no smoking allowed and that in itself was quite a penalty on the majority of us. While there was work Monday night, there was also a very fine evening and of course some fun.

Private John Wagner said, "boy we worked 18 hours, for the government for one buck! Speaking for himself, I'm sure John sure work carrying and pushing his big feet around must be work. The kitchen police for today are Private Fiebelkorn, Gardner and R. Green. Sergeant Ryan is in charge of quarters and there being no formations, he has a lot of company on the street. Sergeant John Kerrigan left for his home at Neenah Monday. The fourth division reunion has taken place at the supply tent and Sergeant Van Oyen of our company and Sergeant W. Olson of the howitzer company have laid plans for a bigger and better meeting to be held in the near future.

Private Mattson expects to stage his fight down here tomorrow night with Sergeant Ryan as his second. We wish Private Mattson a lot of success tomorrow night and feel that he will score a win.

Same Hobbies

Private Tilly proved to be one of the most interested men in pistol work and Private Maynard is still keeping his hand in electricity as he gave a very thorough explanation of the dynamo that the lightning bugs in the vicinity carry during night flying. Sergeant Kline made a business trip to New Lisbon this morning. Karl Kobal and two companions from Appleton visited us last night and this morning and left today for Indiana. As yet we have no assurance as what Wednesday's work will consist of but will tell you about it in a later issue. The thing I hear most frequently while writing is this—tell the folks to please write.

Fruits, Vegetables are Fine for Summer Menus

Madison—Eat an abundance of fruit and vegetables during the summer months urged the State Medical Society in its health bulletin today.

"Fruit is one of the so-called 'protective foods' and should be used in some form daily. Fresh fruits, because of their large content of water, are always cooling, refreshing and appetizing. Fruit which is not thoroughly ripe, or is decomposed should not be eaten.

"Vegetables, as well as fruit, should be included in the summer diet. They are a pleasant and palatable source of vitamins in addition to being nutritious.

Water Important

"Water plays an important part in the diet of a person. During summer months the water consumption should be increased to compensate for the water loss occasioned by perspiration.

"Foods consist of either animal or vegetable matter and human beings can exist either on vegetable or animal food alone. It is generally admitted however that a mixed diet is the best for human existence. In order to digest the food properly in the stomach, it must be thoroughly masticated. Fixe to six hours should intervene between meals to allow time for thorough digestion of the preceding meal.

"Poor health lurks around the corner for the person who habitually goes without breakfast or who has just a scant breakfast. Even during the summer months when a person tries to be as inactive as possible, he needs plenty of reserve. Of course, the question as to what constitutes a good breakfast should be determined somewhat by the activity of the individual and the time at which he is to have his next heavy meal, but going without breakfast is a bad habit.

Proper Conditions

"Food must be prepared and stored under proper conditions in order to assure its wholesome properties. Adulterated or spoiled food may cause serious intestinal upsets. One of the difficult tasks of health authorities is to educate the public and food dealers to the need for protection of food. During the summer months extra care must be taken to protect food in the store and in the home from flies and dust. State sanitary code regulations provide that all foodstuffs stored or exposed for sale except vegetables not eaten raw and fruits with protective coverings—must be protected from flies and dust by such screens, fans, covers, or tight containers as are approved officially. The responsibility for supervision is under the Division of Food and Drugs of the Department of Agriculture and Markets except in cities having full-time health officers.

"If your daily diet is built around milk, green vegetables and fruits during the summer months, you will be well-nourished, have a good resistance against disease, and possess plenty of vigor. With this foundation you can leave the remainder of the diet to the demands of the appetite, although no one should eat entirely according to whims."

Held in Trust

In connection with litigation concerning the 1935 law, tax collections from employees were held in trust and these funds have just been released by court order following the enactment of the amended law which was the result of conferences between representatives of the carriers and labor.

Checks totaling $2,050,000 are being released by the treasury department of the Railway Express agency, covering the employees' 1936 refund, while individual calculations are necessary to determine the amounts due employees for the 1937 refund, totaling $270,000 but this will be distributed to employees as quickly as possible.

Some 43,000 men and women on the payroll will share in this distribution.

Express Shipments are Slightly Ahead in 1937

Railway Express agency shipments are slightly ahead both nationally and locally for the first six months of 1937 as compared to the same period last year, according to W. N. Kimball, local agent. Aside from consignments of bull calves, no unusual shipments have been received in Appleton recently, he said.

California registered 2,377,260 motor vehicles in the first five months of 1937—a gain of 183,484 over the same period a year ago.

Truck Drivers on Strike at Eight Coal Yards in City

Business Agent Says Union Wants Recognition As Bargainer

About 40 truck drivers employed by eight coal dealers in Appleton were striking today as members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America.

A similar strike was called at a number of coal yards in Neenah-Menasha.

Harold Douglas, business agent for the union, claimed 100 per cent membership at the John Haug and Son Fuel company, Balliet Supply company, Henry Schabo and Son Fuel company, Guenther Supply company, Ideal Lumber and Coal company, Marston Brothers company, Buchert Coal company and Van Dyck Company.

He said this morning the organization sought union recognition first and would agree to arbitrate wages and hours later. He said dealers refuse to arbitrate or recognize the union as bargaining agency. The men, he said, will return to work if they are recognized.

On the other hand, some dealers said they knew nothing about the strike except that their drivers were not working. Two others reported that the union was demanding closed shop and one of the two stated that although the men who were in his employ were all members of the union, he would refuse to sign a closed shop agreement.

He added that three dealers met with the union leaders this morning but that nothing was accomplished at the conference.

STOPS HOLDUP

Appleton Sewage Plant Unaffected By Patents Case

Different Process in Use Here, Resident Engineer Explains

The $4,977,291 judgment awarded in federal court at Milwaukee yesterday to Activated Sludge, Inc., in its patent infringement suit against the city of Milwaukee, the sewerage commission and 10 contractors, brought no new wrinkles to the brows of Appleton city officials this morning.

Charles Lange, resident engineer inspector, explained this morning that the Appleton sewage disposal plant does not use the activated sludge process. Mayor Goodland pointed out further that in the city's specifications to bidders on construction of the plant it was provided that the bidders and not the city be responsible for any use of patented equipment or processes.

In the Milwaukee case yesterday, Charles W. Babcock, assistant city attorney, said Milwaukee would appeal to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals and contend the award was excessive.

Lynn A. Williams, attorney for Activated Sludge, Inc., offered the city a week's time to apply for a supersedeas which would prevent the company from taking possession of $303,769, realized by the city from the sale of Milwaukee, a by-product of sewage disposal. The money is being held by the United States district court clerk following a ruling by Judge Geiger in 1934 that patents were being infringed in manufacture of Milwaukee.

Activated Sludge, an English concern, began the suit June 15, 1936, over patents involving a method of utilizing for sewage disposal the nitrogen cycle by which nature breaks down waste.

Babcock said about 135 cities in the United States had constructed sewage disposal plants similar to Milwaukee's.

He doesn't think this decision will have any effect on most of them. Babcock said, "The majority of the cities, I believe, have either paid royalties or settled with Activated Sludge, Inc. Suits have been brought and are still pending against several other cities."

A rye plant bearing 71 heads and containing 8,550 kernels was discovered on the Bart Welch farm near Tekamah, Neb.

Outcome of Present Crisis On Orient May Determine Destiny of Japan, China

(Editor's Note—In the following dispatch, James A. Mills, veteran Associated Press foreign correspondent, analyzes the Sino-Japanese crisis from the background of his long experience of Japan's aims for expansion on the continent of Asia.)

BY JAMES A. MILLS
(By telephone to New York)

Tokio —(7)— On the eve of the seventy-first special session of her parliament which opens tomorrow, Japan finds herself facing one of the gravest periods in her history. The outcome may determine the destiny of the empire, the fate of China and the future of all eastern Asia.

The whole nation of 100,000,000 people and all the might of the empire are mobilized for a struggle against China. Within the last 10 days Japan has rushed thousands of reinforcements to China and is prepared to dispatch thousands more if necessary.

It is generally agreed that yesterday's patched-up agreement between the local Chinese and Japanese officials in North China is merely a temporary regional truce which does not preclude further serious events.

Truce Provision
The truce called for the withdrawal of the Chinese forces from Peiping and the area west of the city where they have been fighting with the Japanese since July 7. The local Chinese government at Nanking has already rejected this agreement.

In no way does this agreement affect the graver national issues between the Tokio and the Nanking governments. It was chiefly for the purpose of forcing a settlement of these major disputes between the two countries, observers declared, that the Japanese government dispatched its powerful army and naval units to China.

Some of those units already have reached the area and others are now in Chinese waters ready to disembark. For the dispatch of so large and so costly an expedition the Japanese will expect concrete results — and these results must come in the form of a solution of the outstanding problems between the two countries.

Primary Issues
Among these issues are:
1. Joint Sino-Japanese suppression of communists;
2. Abolition of China's nationwide boycott against Japanese and Japanese goods;
3. Recognition of Japan's political and economic trade rights in North China;
4. Joint economic development of North China by Japan and China;
5. Establishment of Japanese air lines and airdromes in China (Japan grants no such reciprocal rights to China);
6. Settlement of and reparation for a whole series of alleged acts of violence suffered by Japanese nationals in China at the hands of Chinese, including a number of mob murders;
7. Lowering of tariffs on Japanese goods;
8. Recognition by China of Manchukuo, the state Japan created out of former Chinese provinces in Manchuria.

Problems Unsolved
A dispatch to the newspaper Asahi from Nanking says that despite the Peiping agreement the larger issues between Japan and China remain unsolved. The paper adds that it is expected that hereafter Nanking will exert even stronger pressure upon the Hopeh-Chahar regime in whose name the agreement was concluded and that the northward advance of troops of the Chinese central government will continue.

This, Asahi says, will bring about even greater tension between the two countries and lead to fresh trouble.

A dispatch direct from the Peiping correspondent of Nichi-Nichi declares that the terms of the agreement were not as some of the Chinese troops still hold their positions in the so-called evacuated area.

With Japanese and Chinese troops facing each other and ready to attack on the slightest provocation, one fact stands out. This is that the fundamental issue is that of the future relations between the two countries.

Japanese Stand
Are they to live together in the Far East at peace and on terms of equality or is China to trail behind while Japan controls and directs the destiny of this part of the world?

When Manchuria was cut away from China proper and made into an empire closely allied to Japan in a political, military and economic way, the Tokio government and the war office felt the northern part of China should be made into a special zone under Chinese sovereignty but also under Japanese influence.

Tokio felt this to be necessary from the standpoint of economic and military preparedness against attack from Soviet Russia and during the latter half of 1935 this goal was accomplished in effect. The Hopeh-Chahar political council, composed of Chinese officials, was set up to govern these two North China provinces and they were declared autonomous but not independent of Nanking.

As Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, the Chinese premier, made progress in the steady reunification of his country and the strengthening of the national government at Nanking and of the Chinese army he turned his eyes toward North China with the idea of abolishing this autonomy.

Autonomous North China
An autonomous North China under Japanese influence was what Tokio wanted. North China as an integral part of China proper was what Nanking wanted. The two are irreconcilable.

The stage is all set for a major war to determine whether China is to be mistress in her own house, particularly in the northernmost rooms, now let out to Japanese tenants.

War may not come at all. Both governments realize that nothing is to be gained by either from such a conflict. However, there is the ever present danger that hostilities may break out whether war is wanted or not.

The whole situation may be likened to a smoking, slumbering volcano which may break forth into fire at any moment, engulfing the two countries.

Chamber to Fight Proposal to Route 41 Through Asylum

Committee Schedules Meeting to Outline Stand Against Plan

Opposition to a proposed change in route for Superhighway 41, which would run the beltline through the county asylum farm, will be mapped by the highway committee of the chamber of commerce in a meeting at the office of Kenneth H. Corbett, chamber secretary, at 4:30 Tuesday afternoon.

The chamber committee, opposing the asylum route, seeks to have the new road turn east from its present intersection with Highway 10 west of the city, and then north again somewhere east of the Soo Line tracks.

Such a route, running north one mile off N. Douglas street from Highway 10, was accepted, but prompted by federal road officials, the asylum route again has been revived. A public hearing on the proposed change will be conducted by the highway commission at the courthouse here July 30, and the chamber committee will fight the proposal there.

It Is Said..
T H A T an Appleton youngster has ideas of his own about working for nothing. In hopes of a "pass," he filled a tub of water for a woman at a carnival here. He didn't get it but was still hopeful when he returned home. When his father laughed and told him he might as well tip the tub over again for all the passes he'd get, however, the youngster took it literally. He hiked back to the carnival grounds and tipped the tub over.

That shows at the Hennies carnival last night which were operating tents had an unusual rush of business. The large midway cleared within a few minutes after a sudden shower of rain came up. Some saw several performances before venturing back into the drizzle on the midway.

That letters to the Appleton Chamber of Commerce indicate that some out-of-state residents have looked at the map, found the biggest lake, and decided that Appleton must be the resort center of Wisconsin. The chamber staff writes back, provided information on the relatively small number of cottages available for rent in this immediate vicinity and includes literature on other sections of the state as well. The prospective visitor writes a letter of appreciation, sometimes.

That the mayor must have underestimated the work capacity of the council yesterday. The mayor scanned the routine work to be done by the council prior to a committee of the whole meeting with the city water commission, then told the commissioners to get to the city hall about 6:30. The council sat down at 7:30, whipped through the routine in about 20 minutes, and had nothing to do but wait until the commissioners arrived.

T. at general improvement in business is responsible for the substantial decline in number of door-to-door salesmen operating in Appleton. During the depression, many persons otherwise unemployed, fell back on door-to-door selling in an attempt to make a living. The field became so crowded that any kind of success became increasingly difficult and as soon as any other kind of work became available, the number of canvassers declined. Now housewives here make fewer trips to their doors to listen to sales talks.

Liberal Proposes British Surrender Of Palestine Mandate to United States

Ormsby-Gore told the members that the present league mandate over Palestine is "no longer workable."

He submitted the British Royal commission's recommendation that Palestine be partitioned between Jews and Arabs, with Britain taking a new mandate over Palestine's holy cities.

Both Arabs and Jews, long at odds in the Holy Land, have criticized the plan, the Jews arguing that it would block fulfillment of the idea of a Jewish homeland since territorial restrictions would forbid any considerable immigration.

Some laborite parliament members asserted the partition would give Italy a foothold in the Holy Land.

"The guns which have been sent to the Arabs by Mussolini to fight the Jews might be sent in the future to fight someone else," declared laborite D. Frankel.

An independent laborite, Campbell Stevens, said the government "should state what would be its attitude if the United States or France is prepared to accept the mandate."

"Would the British government step aside and allow France to take over the mandate?" he asked, then expressed hope his words would reach Palestine.

"And you with them," shouted a laborite.

Stevens' colleague, George Buchanan, whirled on the labor benches. "You cheeky, impudent devil," he snapped.

Fair Weather to Continue Tonight

Local Thundershowers Possible Friday, Bureau Reports

Generally fair weather will continue in Appleton and vicinity tonight with an outside possibility of local thundershowers Friday, the forecast from the office of the United States Weather bureau at Milwaukee indicated this morning.

Cool weather is predicted for the north central and extreme west portions of Wisconsin tomorrow.

The mercury remained relatively high here today, showing 90 degrees on the roof of the Post-Crescent building at 1 o'clock, but a brisk southwest breeze made the heat less oppressive. The peak temperature yesterday was 91 degrees and a low of 69 was recorded at 4 o'clock this morning on Wisconsin Michigan Power company instruments.

Highest and lowest temperatures reported yesterday by the Associated Press were 106 at Phoenix, Ariz., and 48 at Yellowstone.

Fire Tower Is Goal of Hike Taken by Boy Scout Campers

Gardner Dam—The gongs rang and rang Tuesday morning at Gardner Dam Boy Scout camp and it was a slow-awakening group of campers that hurried to the two mess halls for breakfast.

Activity on Monday combined with the cool night offered an excellent chance for the campers to catch up on some added rest so that they could be set for the camp program on the following day. The entire group hurried through camp duties to put the camp in order before working on handicraft projects and engaging in swimming activities in the morning.

After a busy morning, the campers were right on hand for another fine dinner at the mess halls and then wandered off to their various cabins at resting spots to get in an hour of complete relaxation before starting the afternoon schedule.

Sixteen campers under the leadership of Carlisle Runge started off for the fire tower. They went by way of Highways 55 and 64 to the tower. After all of the fellows had a chance to climb the tower and look over the wide expanse of the Nicolet National forest and to talk to the tower men, the entire group took the survey trail to the CCC camp. After an inspection of the camp they continued on their trail to Boulder lake and then followed the shore to the Buckstaff cottage. After spending some time there the group followed the road home to the camps getting back to camp about 5:30.

List Hikers
Campers making the trip were Norbert Dressang, John Wiegand, Tom McCarthy, John Kramer, Ralph Wettengel, Jerry Arens, Bob Feuerstein, Jack Kampa, Francis Speel, Francis Rechner, John Heut, Bob Christensen, Morris Naum, Don Alesch, Jerry Natrop, Bill Lawson.

After a supper of baked beans that "hit the spot," combined with some very fine cake and other equally as fine victuals, the entire camp gathered at the lodge to participate either as players or rooters in a spirited ball game. The winning combination seemed to be the battery of Dave Spalding and George Meier.

After the ball game was broken up by darkness, the campers adjourned to the campfire site, where in front of a blazing fire the "stunts" were put on by the various patrols.

The Skooms led off with Tim McCarthy pulling the old but new "Funnel stunt" and the good natured goat was Herman Bushman. Wimpy's Cows led by Jerry Natrop rendered a selection called "Alla la hay." They had to quit trying to sing when the rest of the campers began to sing "that's a lot of applesauce."

Mystery Story
Herman Bushman told a mystery story as part of the stunt of the Lazy Loggers. Jeannie Inkstinger's Blue Blooded Blinking Blithering Idiots starred Dave Spalding in their stunt. He told a short "tall" story to commemorate Paul Bunyan week. The Seven Axemen put on the "Last of the Mohicans" as their stunt with Jim Miller in charge. The Log Busters inched most of the campers in their stunt putting them in their act and then announcing it as the "Gathering of the Nuts." Red Walsh acted as master of ceremonies.

Paul Bunyan's Accessories was the theme of the stunt presented by Eugene Killoren's patrol. The Blue Ox. They showed a pitch fork as Paul's table fork, a big log as his toothbrush and other items of interest taken from Paul Bunyan's household.

With the sounding of taps and the scoutmaster's benediction, the campers ran across the upper suspension bridge to their cabins and in a short while the camp was quiet for the lone whip-poor-will who seemed to be able to keep on calling indefinitely or at least until your report or had fallen asleep.

WPA AND PRIVATE EMPLOYMENT

Down in Pittsburgh 500 women have just been dismissed from WPA rolls where they had been working on sewing projects. These women were all advised by those in charge that they must look out for themselves, even to the finding of private jobs. They were directed to go to the employment bureau. Only 30 of them paid any attention to the direction.

The rest organized, elected spokesmen and adopted principles.

Their major pronouncement is that they will not work in domestic service for from $5 to $7 a week and keep, but that it is the duty of the government to continue employing them at $15 a week. They openly expressed a preference for the government as an employer because their hours were so short and their work so pleasant it was more like fun.

The public is likely to react against these outbreaks of WPA workers in ugly mood. But should it? Let him who would act in a different manner step forward and place the blame.

Yes, there will be a good many to step forward because there are a good many who would not accept charity, become a burden on their government or anyone else needlessly, and who would feel 100 per cent better when self-supporting or producing in a normal manner.

But there are many hundreds of thousands, perhaps several million in this country who do not subscribe to that doctrine.

They believe the government owes them a living and ought to take care of them. Some believe this because their mental apparatus cannot conceive the result which long-continued application of this principle must bring. Others support this idea because they feel no thrill at being self-supporting and no shame nor backwardness at being a charity patient for life.

The profligate manner in which these people have had their way for so long, and which was purposely maintained we believe to get their votes, is a material factor in creating their point of view. The mistaken declaration of Mr. Roosevelt, and the support by him of erroneous policies, in the failure to make plain the necessity of every person taking care of himself if physically possible, have added to the difficulties.

The President keeps talking one way. But events are forcing him to act another.

THE FIGHT FOR THE RIGHT TO SPEND

When the President vetoed the farm loan bill he wrote as sensible a message as he has ever written—and so sensible that congress couldn't even believe him.

He directed the attention of our lawmakers to the fact that reduction of interest rates which the bill sought to extend was only adopted originally for emergency purposes and since there has been an increase in farm income from a little over 5 billion a year as in 1932 to 9 1/2 billion in 1936, the emergency feature of the measure was past and it was the duty of the farmer, with sufficient money in his jeans, to pay a rate of interest that would not require the national government to lose another 30 million dollars this year.

The House passed the bill over the President's veto. Democratic members voting for it 159 to 90 and Republicans voting for it 62 to 7, from which we conclude that after the President has taught congress, irrespective of party, to be extremely extravagant and when he occasionally sees the ridiculous result of this policy, he is unable to restrain the spenders from spending.

And yet, we presume, congressmen reason that if Mr. Roosevelt can take another billion and a half to needlessly throw a large share of it in the drink and still fight for Quoddy, the Florida ship canal, broken yardsticks, and all the other nonsense of the last four years, why should congress be denied the privilege of throwing a mere 30 millions away?

Is the President the only one to have the privilege of high-handed generosity? "The thorns which I have reaped are of the tree I planted; they have torn me and I bleed." I should have known what fruit would spring from such a seed.

THE TEACHERS' TRUST

The fact is encouraging that record enrollments of members of the teaching profession are reported by a number of institutions where Summer courses are conducted. The teaching profession faces new obligations and its members demonstrate that they recognize their responsibilities and are preparing themselves, as best they may, to meet them.

Higher education in the United States has made tremendous strides (at least numerically) in the last twenty years. From a total of slightly more than 300,000 in 1915, enrollment figures in colleges and universities have climbed to more than 1,000,000, exclusive of students enrolled in teachers' colleges and extension courses.

The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching has issued a report in which it warns against the dangers of "educated proletariats," pointing to "the tragedies that have been witnessed in Europe as the direct result of overcrowding in certain professions."

"Today the task is twofold," says the report. "First, to redefine the concept of liberal education in terms more appropriate to the world in which we live, and, second, to provide appropriate types of education for the increasing numbers who are entering on some form of post-primary education."

The task will not prove to be an easy one. But one finds heartening assurance that American educators hope to be able to meet their responsibilities in the words of the new president of Lawrence college. In his inaugural address, Dr. Thomas N. Barrows said:

"If our efforts fail to develop high ethical principles, faith in the democratic ideal, and constructive leadership, the enterprise will have been largely futile. . . . Just as seeds are planted each Spring with faith in Nature, so the college looks to that vitalizing spirit which moves the Universe to bring about, in some well cultivated academic plot, some germination of ideas, some evolution of human experience, some flowering of mind and spirit. This is our end and our aim."

These are brave words. One can believe that Dr. Barrows speaks for the great majority of teachers. Some of them may not phrase their aspirations so ringingly, but their dream will be realized if patient preparation can translate it into fact.

Of course, educators face new problems. Perhaps an "educated proletariat" will prove to be not the least of their problems, or of ours. However, we do not believe it. An "educated proletariat" has been the American ideal since colonists first reached these shores.

PICTURING WISCONSIN OF THE FUTURE

A reader writes the Post-Crescent: "My pet theory is at least $1.00 fishing license for every fisherman over 18. The money derived from this income to be used partly in increasing the number of our game wardens. The balance to be used in purchasing gradually a strip of land 50 feet wide or more on each side of every stream and river in Wisconsin. This land its course and soon we will have nice large trees, shady, cool streams, sparkling clear waters, not so many floods, and after a period of time as more sewage disposal plants are placed in operation and waste from paper mills is controlled, we will start to go places. Then, sir, you will really be able to brag about Wisconsin fishing."

As several million people from out of the state are casting lines in Wisconsin these days a smart Badgerite must keep his eye on the future. The great course of our tourists is climbing every year. It will continue to climb if we do not trip Nature and hamstring the elements. The crowd will be augmented, too, because Wisconsin is without a peer, without a parallel. It has the lakes, and the streams, the hills and the forests, the fish and the cooks.

What will the crowd be ten years hence or twenty? The time to plant and visualize is now.

So long as we have plenty of citizens with the colorful sort of imagination that picture and improve the future the years that are coming are fairly safe, but safe only because voices will be raised pointing to the dangers, the denuded lands, the dry river beds and all the other signs that accompany man when he plays the swine, enjoys but forgets, guts himself and starves others, lives for today but neglects tomorrow.

It is a good picture our correspondent drew, and one worth mulling over.

POLITICS

Pooley, sez I, on politics.
Handin' out bouquets or bricks!
Tain't much sense, we must confess.
Jest a silly, mixed-up mess.
Like that old-time grab-bag game—
Take yer grab, it's all the same.
'Spite of hopes, you don't get much.
Politics sure beat the Dutch!
Ain't much choice, fur's I can see,
Demmycrat or G. O. P.
'Course there's good old Franklin D. -
Ain't no better man than he—
But, 'cause he would help us hicks,
His bouquets come mostly bricks.
'Long when 'lection time comes due,
Here's a pretty how-de-do:
All you see is dog eat dog.
No more ethics than a hog.
Takin' muck and slingin' dirt.
Like as not they'd steal yer shirt.
If you lose an 'Im the winner.
You're the martyr, I'm the sinner
If God himself were president,
All of fifty one percent
Would be panning Him, I'm sure.
Just because He'd help the poor.
Flingin' Him a flock of bricks—
Pooley, sez I, on politics.

Why how you talk, Mrs. G. W., how you talk!

The vote of one Mississippi senator, Bilbo by name, cost another Mississippi senator, Harrison, the majority leadership of the senate, and I wonder how the people in Mississippi will like that.

IT HAPPENED

However, if the anti court packing senators number 37, according to the majority leadership vote, and there are still 16 Republican senators around, it isn't hard to guess what will happen to the court packing bill.

A Verse for Today
By Anne Campbell

THE PHANTOM SHIP

From the screened porch we see a ship ride by.
A ghostly ship against a pale blue sky.
Far off the smoky blends with the twilight haze.
It scarcely moves beneath our dreaming gaze.

Upon the dim horizon of our years,
We still can see, in spite of pain and tears,
Another phantom ship. . . . How faintly gleams!
Across the seas of time, our ship of dreams!

Two columns on Page 1 were devoted to a summary of damage done by the "worst rain storm on state record." Tuesday and Wednesday, from 8 to 12 inches of rainfall in a 24 hour period was reported at Shawano, and nearly 6 inches in this vicinity.

Henry D. Ryan, city attorney, was in Wausau Wednesday to deliver an address before the convention of the Wisconsin League of Municipalities and was told by Karl Mathie, formerly of Appleton, that more than 7,000,000 feet of logs had been carried away by the flood.

Rohrer's dam on the Pigeon river was washed out and dozens of culverts and bridges in the vicinity of Clintonville were washed away. A bolt of lightning struck the barn of Herman Bruhn in the town of Freedom Tuesday morning and a few hours later another bolt struck the barn of his brother, Andrew Bruhn, two miles away.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

That the diet of modern civilized man lacks something essential for optimal nutrition seems to be the belief of physiologists, nutritionists, chemists, dentists and some physicians. There are still a few physicians, however, men who have achieved more or less eminence in the profession by upsetting various traditions and establishing new concepts, occupy their hours between calls by writing blasts against "the vitamin craze" or the "mineral deficiency" fallacy, and offer as warrant for their objection to these newfangled notions the confession that practitioners of their class rarely diagnose conditions which in their judgment are due to nutritional deficiency! It was Marie Antoinette who asked why the mob, if they couldn't get bread, did not eat cake.

The mineral deficiency in our diet that gives the greatest concern is lack of calcium (lime), and ultimately associated with this is lack of phosphorus, for these two elements naturally occur in combination. Lack of iron is perhaps next in importance. There appears to be little sound evidence that everyday food is seriously lacking in other elements. By sound evidence we mean the observations and scientific tests made by physiologists, chemists, biologists and physicians of standing. One must beware of the plausible vagaries of self-constituted "dietitians," "food specialists" and other apostles of freak dieting.

Who cares how many elements are essential for good nutrition or how much of each element the body requires from day to day? The human body is not a mere machine, but a vital organism infinitely more efficient than any machine. It does not require fuel of a particular kind or quality but is capable of adapting itself to a wide range of fuel materials without impairment of function.

In due course lists of foods which are good sources of calcium, phosphorus and other elements will be given. Here it is important to state that an adequate intake of vitamin D is quite as essential as calcium, since the absorption or assimilation and utilization of calcium in the body is controlled by vitamin D. Vitamin D also controls the phosphorus metabolism and maintains the normal balance between the two elements in the blood stream, the bones, the teeth, the nerves and other tissues. The only natural foods containing significant amounts of vitamin D are salmon and some other sea fish fresh or canned, egg yolk, milk, cream and butter. Fish liver oils are not natural foods of civilized man. These sources, even if the diet is unusually well planned, cannot be depended on to furnish enough vitamin D for the infant or growing child, and hence it is generally advisable to give a supplementary daily ration of vitamin D in one form or another to every infant or young child. The action of ultra-violet light on the naked skin, sunlight or light from a carbon arc lamp or a mercury vapor quartz lamp produces vitamin D in the body, and the more the skin is exposed to such irradiation the less the individual needs the supplementary feeding with vitamin D. There is now good ground for the opinion that if the calcium-phosphorus metabolism will be good even though the diet is poor in calcium or phosphorus or both.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Dozing
What will keep a person awake? Coffee soon loses its effect when I take it regularly. No matter how good a night's sleep I get, I fall asleep when I try to study. (S. C.)
Answer—Perhaps the room is too warm or insufficiently ventilated or the air excessively dried out, or the lighting is not properly arranged. I know of nothing that will keep one awake.
Calories for Fat
Please tell me the caloric value of the following food items. I am trying to keep my intake within 1000 calories a day, which I understand is sufficient for maintaining normal health but low enough to bring about some reduction. (Miss D. T. M.)
Answer—Dried prunes 370 calories in a pound; raisins, 1.605; dried apricots, 1.290; figs 1.475; dates 1.615; graham crackers 1.955; saltines 2.005; soda crackers 1.925; salines 2.005; soda crackers 1.925; zwieback 1.970; white bread 1.205; gluten bread 1.210; rye bread 1.180; whole wheat bread 1.140; brown bread 1.050; potato 440. Send ten cents coin and stamped envelope bearing your address, for booklet "Design for Dwindling."

Sodium
I am low in sodium, but cannot seem to eat enough sodium bearing foods to build up the sodium content. Am taking calcium lactate. Is there any chemical I can take to increase the sodium in my blood and tissues? What foods are rich in sodium? (Mrs. G. B.)
Answer—I wonder how in the world you arrive at the conclusion that you get insufficient sodium? I know of no chemical that would supply sodium, other than common salt, and it is not advisable to take more salt than you get in milk, fish, meat, eggs. I advise you not to monkey with your sodium metabolism but to leave such abstruse nutritional problems entirely to your physician's judgment.

Your Birthday

"LEO"
If July 23 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m. and from 3:30 to 5:30 p. m. and from 8:30 to 10:30 p. m. The darker periods are from 7:30 to 9:30 a. m. from 6:30 to 8:30 p. m. and from 10:30 p. m. until midnight.

Those whose birth anniversary is July 23 were born under the zodiacal sign LEO. By nature you are probably a very independent, energetic, honest and persistent individual. You by no means tell all you know. As a matter-of-fact the chances are you are inclined to be secretive regarding your personal matters. Generally you are good-humored, make friends readily and most likely, have special ambitions. Your impulses occasionally may get you into hot water, for you are apt to act too hastily on them. You perhaps have very few dislikes, and can readily adjust yourself to people and environment. Money, from a pecuniary angle, means very little to you, the result being that occasionally there may be a tendency on your part to be extravagant. You are of an intensely loyal nature, and have a tremendous amount of self-control. You will find, as a rule, Sunday is your lucky day. Married and engaged couples, as well as those who are seriously considering becoming betrothed, must display a sympathetic understanding, as well as broad-mindedness should the occasion warrant it this day.

If a woman and July 23 is your birthday, you can rub the sardonyx, diamond or ruby as your birthstone. The poppy, peony, red rose and sunflower are your natural affinities. You probably can do your best work alone, unhampered by authority. You are of a sensitive nature, with strongly developed powers of intuition. You must guard against becoming domineering or dictatorial, if you wish to have a happy home life. You ought to be prolific with the pen or artist's brush, and display executive ability in any commercial venture you undertake. If you refrain from trying to dominate your husband's life and actions you will be very happy married.

The child born on July 23, during its early childhood, probably will be very self-conscious, tender hearted, and when its timidity is forgotten, extremely vivacious. Its future success possibly will be due to its popularity.

If a man and July 23 is your natal day, you are philanthropic, full of vitality, and governed by generous impulses. As an author, sculptor, architect, engineer, educator or salesman your fondest expectations are likely to be fully realized.

Seen And Heard In New York
BY GEORGE TUCKER
Aboard the American Mercury—
You write this at dusk about 12,000 feet high on a giant sky-scraper somewhere between New York and Texas. . . . There are two doctors aboard. . . . Also a naval officer, his wife, a theatrical agent, a famous sound technician, a lady who lives in Dallas, and a columnist.

Dr. Williams of New York and Dr. Fishwick of Nashville have persuaded the stewardess to give them a fly swatter, and they are indulging in a little sweepstakes of their own. . . . It works like this. . . . In a given number of attempts, the one killing the larger number of flies gets to share in the other's fried chicken at dinner. . . . "Say, Doc," says Dr. Williams, "I ought to have a handicap. You're a health commissioner and have a professional interest in killing flies."

The film technician is Douglas Shearer, brother of Norma Shearer, and as this is being written he is shaving himself with an electric razor which Miss Kremer, the hostess, has thoughtfully provided. . . . There is something uncanny in the way this slim, pretty girl anticipates our wants. . . . For instance, she saw Shearer pass a reflective hand over his chin, and she got up and presented him with the razor. . . . Incidentally Mr. Shearer doesn't wear a belt or suspenders. . . . I don't know what folds his pants up.

Lieutenant Coye, of the navy, is enroute to San Diego, and this is his wife's first flight. . . . She is a bride. . . . She was wearing orchids when she came aboard for

A Bystander In Washington

Washington — Senators Henry Ashurst and Tom Connally may yet save the nation.

Into all the heavy duty argument over the Supreme Court bill, they inject the lightsome, personal touch. They add oboe and piccolo notes to the trouble-laden bass of such senators as Burke of Nebraska and Walsh of Massachusetts. And the nation should be grateful. They are as unlike in their methods as teeth and toe-nails. Ashurst, the erudite, sometimes dresses his ideas with phrases of such facility as to hide the fact he is one of the most learned in history and legislation in the senate. And he is forever the suave showman, the William Powell of lawmakers.

Connally, lacking the deft touch of Ashurst, makes up for it in the acrid bite of his remarks. His sardonic style has more than once carried him out of bounds so that he has felt better to revise his remarks before they appear in the imperishable columns of the Congressional Record.

Ashurst In Action
But don't get an idea the two are wholly frivolous. They just do their work that way. They are members of important committees. Ashurst is chairman and Connally a member of the senate judiciary committee which handled the court bill.

Ashurst early this session spoke out for a constitutional amendment to revise the court and almost overnight switched over to become the champion of the President's bill to revise the court by law. "Consistency," he jibed, "is a weakness of little minds." During the current debate on the court bill he had an opportunity to explain how hard it may be for senators to be consistent, or to explain their votes.

He was asked by Senator Burke whether he was moved by a desire to make the Supreme Court change its mind when he voted 22 years ago for a bill to permit the President to add an occasional justice.

"The senator from Nebraska asked me if I supported the bill then pending for the reason indicated. Call the roll of senators and let them open the door of the sanctuary which is within the breast (he tapped his shirt with his fist) of every human being, that monitor that tells them when they are right or wrong, and on their honor they are sometimes unable to say just what particular factors determined them to vote this way or that."

Connally's Method
Connally handled the matter another way. He now opposes the court bill but was accused by Senator Hatch of New Mexico of having supported the 22-year-old bill, and was asked why the change of heart.

"If the senator from Texas (meaning himself) does not learn anything in 20 years of service in the congress, it would prove that he had been wholly incapable of learning anything in his service among distinguished representatives of the house and distinguished senators in this chamber."

He demonstrated, however, that inconsistency was no factor in his case. It was another Connally who had voted for the 22-year-old bill, and Hatch apologized.

Court Fight Is Expected to Keep Duffy From Trip

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington—Dat ole debbil court plan is going to keep Senator F. Ryan Duffy of Fond du Lac from his trip to France to assist in dedicating battle monuments.

Even before the death of senate majority leader Joe Robinson threw Capitol Hill into greater turmoil than ever over the court plan, Senator Duffy was undecided. The fact the approaching deadline for making plans to go and the fact that the Democrats did not caucus to name their new majority leader until Wednesday just about put an end to the trip, Duffy said Wednesday.

Duffy, as one of the World War veterans in the senate, was named to go on the battle monuments commission junket. But the court plan has kept him in a dither about it. Before Robinson's death he had said he would go if he could be paired with a senator opposed to the plan, indicating that he supports the measure.

Now that there is talk of a new plan, and since plans to the procedure to be employed are still indefinite, the Wisconsin senator just isn't going to get too far from the scene of the present battle.

Duffy said he doubts now if any three senators can be found who will leave the court plan fight to go to France.

ship, but Miss Kremer is keeping them for her now in the icebox. . . . A honeymoon? . . . "No, we've been married two years." . . . This is what the Lieutenant says. . . . "But I feel like a bride," admits Mrs. Coye, shyly. "I'm what you call a navy widow." . . . A navy wife is always a widow, just as is a newspaperman's wife. I see my husband less than two months in the year."

Mr. Paul Small, whose name is something of a misnomer, is gently snoring in the space where berth No. 3 will presently be. . . . Mr. Small grosses a neat 300 pounds, and he practically lives on planes and trains. . . . He represents the William Morris agency and his business is appraising theatrical acts which he tours through the world. As for Miss Kremer, she would write something nice about her but she is standing at my elbow and I am afraid she would peep over my shoulder. . . . Balanced in her hand is a large tray of richly brown fried chicken. . . . She says "How can I serve you with that typewriter taking all the room?" Didn't I tell you she had a genius for anticipating people's wants?

Future Expansion of Fox River Valley Is Foreseen By State Planning Board

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Tucked away in a little office in a private building away from the capitol is a state department, which although it is unheralded and brand new, is deep in a work which in future years will make Wisconsin a better place in which to live.

It is the Wisconsin State Planning board, created originally in 1931, since reorganized several times by the legislature, and now, in the words of one of its officers, one of the best in the United States.

Economic planning by government has been much discussed since the New Deal and the celebrated "brain trust" moved in on Washington. While it cooperates with the national planning agencies, the Wisconsin board is carrying on its work largely alone for "the general purpose of guiding and accomplishing a coordinated, adjusted, efficient and economic development of the state, which will, in accordance with future and present needs and resources, best promote the health, safety, order and convenience and welfare of the state as well as efficiency and economy in the process of development. All state boards, commissions, departments and institutions are directed to cooperate with the state planning board to further these ends." So reads the statute.

Important Job

The legislature has entrusted this board, which consists of university professors, state officials, and private citizens, with the most comprehensive and important job ever handed to any state agency. A few of the subjects which the legislators directed the board to study and supply data on are the character and extent of the state's highways, waterways, waterfront and harbor development, flood prevention works, parks, reservations, forests, wild-life refuges, aviation facilities, drainage, sanitary systems, waste disposal works for the prevention of stream pollution, water works, railroad works, railroad and motor vehicle routes, power transmission facilities, public buildings and other public works and facilities, work opportunities, the location and extent of forests, agricultural areas and open development areas for the purposes of conservation, housing, food and water supply, sanitary and drainage facilities and the protection of urban and rural development, a land utilization program, including the classification and allocation of the land within the state among agricultural, forestry, recreational soil conservation, water conservation, industrial, urbanization, and other uses and purposes.

For the past year or so the board has been concentrating its energies on a state wide recreational program, and recently published a far-reaching study with recommendations for recreational facilities in the southeastern Wisconsin counties.

Now at Work

The board now is working with the state conservation department in carrying out this southeastern Wisconsin program, which covers roughly the kettle moraine area, and reaches into Calumet and Manitowish counties, with the aid of the $75,000 annually appropriated for this purpose by the 1937 legislature.

sive will such parks be used." The board points out that past legislatures, in creating state park areas in northern and western Wisconsin, would have acted with more foresight by buying shore sites on the Lake Michigan shore lands in the southeastern and northeastern industrial sections.

While present efforts center about the southeastern section of the state, the next logical step, according to planning officials, is a program in the Fox River valley industrial region.

Expansion Seen

According to the board's statistical tables, the lake shore counties and the Fox river valley, or Green Bay drainage area, are due for an expansion during the next quarter century while the rest of the state will decrease in population. By 1960 factory operators in Wisconsin will have increased in numbers 150,000, and of these many will be in the Fox river valley manufacturing centers, it was pointed out. Moreover, in spite of the heavy present population, and the 10 per cent increase in the last three decades compared with a 10 per cent decrease for many other parts of the state, that area has no easily accessible state parks or recreational lands. The ideal of the board is to have a state park within 50 miles of every heavily populated county in Wisconsin, one official explained.

One of the objectives toward which the board is working also, it was explained, is a connected system of park ways from the Milwaukee metropolitan area along the lake shore to the state parks in the Door county peninsula.

Rigid Regulations

While community conscious local groups are constantly petitioning the legislature and the state conservation department to establish state parks in particular localities, the state government has set up a rigid set of qualifications which such proposed areas must meet, namely: (1) They must be large, otherwise they could not be used by great numbers of people without destruction of the very qualities most essential to their purpose; (2) they must be accessible at reasonable expense; (3) the climate should be healthful; (4) the property should be reasonable in cost, and in such condition that construction and maintenance expense will be low; it should be a "natural" so that only a few improvements will be necessary; (5) the site for a park should have a "decidedly uncommon charm and beauty, a distinction among landscapes, an irresistible appeal to the nature lover. Here there should be no room for doubt, for failure on this point means complete failure."

Under these rules the state is seeking out the best locations for a series of parks which in the decades to come will make Wisconsin to an even greater degree "the playground of the nation."

Agriculture have been named on committees for dairy day at the Wisconsin State fair at Milwaukee Aug. 27.

They are Dean Chris L. Christensen, T. L. Bewick and Miss Grace Rowntree, 4-H club department, Arlie Mucks, animal husbandry, Miss Stillman and Miss Mary Brady, home economics extension, R. H. Rasmussen and W. A. Sumner, agricultural journalism.

Big Crowds Attend Daily Events in Kimberly Park

Kimberly—The Kimberly park is one of the busiest places in the village during the summer months with its picnickers, swimming pool and playground activities. Hundreds of children use the swimming pool each morning and afternoon. Regular schedules are posted for groups who use the pool throughout the day. At night the pool is lighted and is under the supervision of Ed Lemmers. A wading pool is located near the large one for younger children.

Tournaments in connection with the playground are now in progress in the park with many children participating. The contests include croquet, washer and horseshoe pitching. The baseball diamond in the park provides entertainment for both hard and softball games. Tee-ball and swings keep many children busy.

Conservation Progress Up To People, LaFollette Says

Madison — "No conservation program can progress faster than the people at home are willing to go. Governor LaFollette said last night at the first state conference of the Wisconsin Wildlife Federation.

"We are able to go only so far in our conservation work as we are able to educate our people on conservation needs," the governor said. "Wisconsin has made more progress in this field in the last three or four years than it did in the previous decade."

Other speakers, including John Callahan, state superintendent of public instruction; Mrs. Frank K. Quimby of Racine, educational writer for the United States Forest Service; and William J. Aberg, Madison, chairman of the federal conservation committee, agreed that early school training on conservation is essential.

"When I was a boy, back in the '60s," Callahan said, "we probably tell into the 'game hog' classification because we didn't have to worry about bag limits. If there were any game laws, we didn't know about them."

Only through education, Callahan said, will the public become fully aware of the need for conserving resources. He recalled that Wisconsin school lands were handled badly because the administrators didn't realize their value.

Mrs. Quimby said Wisconsin has been leading the way in the nation in the conservation field. The federal forestry service is using Wisconsin schools as a testing ground for much of its educational material.

Aberg recalled that until 1930 the conservation program in the state was dependent wholly for funds on income from licenses and fines. Tax money, he said, was spent for the first time that year to advance a program which benefits every citizen, not only the sportsmen.

Safe to Leave Food in Can If It Is Covered, Kept Cool

"It is as safe to leave food in an opened tin can as any other container provided it is kept covered in a cool place," Carlton F. Sturdy, a representative of the American Can company, said at an open meeting of the Kiwanis club at the Conway hotel Wednesday noon. "In most instances," the speaker said, "the can is more scientific than the ordinary dish or pan."

This "tin can" is not made of tin but of the finest steel, according to Sturdy. More steel is consumed by the can industry annually than used in the manufacture of rails. Metal is the ideal sterile container because it will not unite with the ingredients nor lend a flavor to them. Some foods contain sulphur which tarnishes the inside, but this is not harmful, he continued.

"The American Can company maintains 38 research laboratories in the country and mails an average of 8,300 pieces of informative literature a day. The industry has been handicapped by prejudice. The company does not pack any food but does strive to better the preparation and sealing process," he said.

Describing food harvests, Sturdy said it took two years to grow pineapples, and crushed pineapple is the choicest because it is taken from the nearest the shell and is choicest to the sunlight. He pictured a salmon run in Alaska that was 12 miles wide and took 28 days to pass a given point.

Clear Analysis of Hand Given by Letter Writer

BY ELY CULBERTSON
"Dear Mr. Culbertson: A hand last week in a local tournament is the most interesting hand I have seen in a long time, and I am hopeful that you will enjoy it.

The bidding:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1 diamond Pass
1 heart Pass 2 clubs Pass
2 hearts Pass 3 no trump Pass
3 hearts Pass 6 hearts Double
Pass Pass Pass
"West opens the spade deuce. If dummy plays spade five, East plays the seven; if dummy (as I did) plays the ten, East, of course, covers with the jack. From here on the play is interesting. North's double of the small slam contract is evidence that trumps probably are divided adversely 4-1. If all five hearts are in one hand, the contract cannot be made.
"After winning the first trick with the spade king, South leads a diamond, winning with dummy's ace. A small diamond then is ruffed. The club nine then is led and won with dummy's jack. A small diamond is ruffed and the play, to date, indicates a possible 4-3-3 distribution in East's hand. The club king is led and dummy overtakes with ace. The club queen then is led, South discarding his losing spade. The spade ace wins the next trick and we find this ending:

"A spade, club or diamond lead from dummy at trick nine assures South of twelve tricks, and his doubled contract of six hearts is made! South ruffs and leads a heart to the king, dropping West's ten en route. If East wins, the must return a heart from the 9-8-3 into declarer's tenace of Q J 8. If East overruffs, he must play a trump at the next trick, and declarer has only to top whatever trump he plays.
"It will be noted that the contract is quite simple if, at trick one, dummy plays a small spade and West obliges by playing the spade jack. Hearts then can be led at trick two, declarer's trump suit shortened to East's length by ruffing. But without the second spade entry to dummy I believe the contract can be made only as I have described. Trumps cannot be led until trick ten.
"Yours very truly,
"G. H. A., Seattle, Wash."
I agree with my correspondent that the hand is a pretty one. It is, of course, a member of the grand coup family, the exceptional point of interest being that trumps are not touched until declarer has shortened himself to the same length as the right hand defender. The analysis is so clear that there is nothing that I need add except to congratulate declarer for flawless card reading.
TODAY'S QUESTION
Question: The bidding (neither side vulnerable) has been:
South West North East
1 no trump Double Pass ?
What should East do with A 10 8
K 8 6 5 J 7 6 A 8 6 2 ?
Answer: Pass. With one and a half honor tricks it is proper to make a penalty pass when partner makes a take-out double of one no trump.

Train Children Not to Interrupt One Another

BY ANGELO PATRI
"Geec-ee-e, ma, if I'm not glad to get home."
"We're certainly glad you're back and tickled to know you're glad of it, too. What happened?"
"You know what? In that house you don't get a chance to speak not even one sentence through."
"Tek, tek, Robert. I hope you didn't talk all the time."
"Talk? Listen, ma, if I got the chance to say good-bye, even, I was lucky. Nobody got any chance. They all talked at once, and each one hollered louder than the other. I got a headache."
"But weren't Donald's father and mother there, too?"
"O, sure, and they just had to talk along with the others or keep still. If anybody started to say something all the rest chimed in and talked along with him."
"They just kept interrupting each other, you mean?"
"I guess it was an interruption party, ma. Anyway I'm cured of interrupting anybody again as long as I live. Believe me, I'll wait for my turn."
Robert had made an overnight visit to his school friend's home, and the noisy group had rather shocked him. In his home interrupting anybody while he was talking or working or otherwise engaged, was considered bad manners. In Donald's family it was the rule. They never waited for anybody to finish his sentence; they started new topics of conversation regardless.
There are plenty of such people. They do not seem to realize that anybody else wants to speak, or wants to be quiet, or wants to do his work uninterrupted. They drop into the house unexpectably, any hour. They call on the telephone whenever the spirit moves them, and that seems to be at the oddest hours. They keep right on talking in high tones, over the voice of the first speaker. They hold the floor by going an octave higher and using the bellows vigorously. They are professional interrupters, and they have their reward in the common exclamation of their acquaintances.
Children should be trained to avoid this, and the best training is a good example. Let the child speak to the end of his story. If he tries to hold the center of the stage before a reasonable time, lift your hand in signal for the finish. Then let the next one speak in his turn. But let no child interrupt another when he is talking, nor speak at the same time. It simply is not done.
People are not to be interrupted in their routine whether of work or play. Ask permission before turning on the radio. Knock gently at the door of the room in which some one is working. If you must intrude upon him have a good reason. Don't make calls unless you are expected, not even on your grand aunt. She might prefer the quiet of her home to the interruption of your presence. Don't disturb people, but try to adjust yourself to their wishes and you will assure your welcome. These are a few suggestions for the children who might make a mistake of this sort.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing a three-cent stamp, addressed envelope for reply.

Use Lotions For Summer Loveliness

BY ELSIE PIERCE
BECAUSE the skin exudes more oil and moisture during the summer than at any other time of the year, and because the skin, like the body, benefits by a change in diet, it is a good plan to change to lotions for summer loveliness.
Unless your skin is very dry and fragile, easily chapped or irritated you will find a liquid cleanser very effective to remove residue, grime, dust, oil and old make-up. Continue to use your liquefying or cream cleanser at night before retiring for a very thorough cleansing. But several times during the day and particularly before applying fresh makeup, try the liquid cleanser. There are many such cleansers on the market, and they are delightful. They are a boon to the traveler, the sportsman, the business woman and can be called upon to do a quick cleansing and refreshing act at a moment's notice. I've known business women to disappear into the restroom looking worn and wilted from summer's heat and emerge within a few minutes looking positively reborn. A quick going over with the liquid cleanser and the application of new make-up does the trick.
Iced Tonic
Another lovely lotion is skin tonic. I have found the following a luxurious little treatment for the skin. Cleanse the skin thoroughly. Then apply a thin gauze masque over the face and neck. Have handy an atomizer filled with skin tonic that has been iced (I keep my bottle in the refrigerator all summer). Spray the tonic over the gauze masque. Lie down in a darkened room with tonic soaked pads over the eyes. Repeat the tonic spraying once or twice. Rest for ten minutes or longer if you can. Blot the skin dry with a tissue. Apply a make-up base and then your make-up. You should look and feel fresh as the proverbial daisy.
During the summer, unless the skin is dry, the tonic may be made to serve as a make-up base. Blend rouge directly over the skin while it is the least bit damp. Then blot dry, and dust powder over face and neck. Heighten the color with a touch of compact rouge.
Eye Lotion
Another indispensable lotion, particularly for those traveling, partaking of outdoor sports, those who live near sea, sand or dusty wastes is a really good eye lotion. A few drops of a really good eye lotion will spare you the agony of irritation, will keep your eyes clear and bright.
My complete new booklet "Reduce by Exercise" (Booklet 202) is yours for ten cents. It covers the subject thoroughly. Send for it, giving your name and full address to the Bell Library, care this newspaper, 247 West 43rd Street, New York, N. Y.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

BY EMILY POST

A B C'S IN MANNERS

(Especially for young people)
1. Do you see any impropriety in three young girls' not yet nineteen and three young men not more than twenty-one going away on an all day motor trip without a chaperon?

Answer: There is no impropriety in their going for the day, but certainly they should be back that same evening.

2. I just graduated from high school last month and am going to college in the fall "way down South." My best boy friend graduated last year from college and is working in the Far West. Because it will not be possible for us to see each other next year, his parents have invited me to drive west with them to visit him. I know that this trip is being made at great personal sacrifice to them and I do not want to burden them with my expenses too. Mother is away now and I am to tell them yes or no just as soon as she returns next week. Meanwhile will you write me how I can go about offering to pay my own share of the expenses without embarrassing my friend's father?

Answer: The best way to go about it would be to talk frankly with his mother because it would be perfectly natural thing to make such an arrangement with another woman. On the other hand, to approach the father would make the situation impossible since no man would willingly take money from a woman, especially from one young enough to be his daughter. Of course unless the wife agrees to the fairness of letting you pay your share, there is nothing further that you can do about it.

3. A college friend of mine has invited me to be one of a house party, which she is giving at X. Beach where her family has a house for the summer. Her fiancé lives near me and of course is going to this same party. Just now he stopped by to suggest that I drive with him. The distance is about a hundred and fifty miles. I told him I'd let him know soon and made some weak excuse for wanting time to answer. But I really wanted time to ask whether you thought this plan within the bounds of propriety and also whether my friend—his fiancée—could possibly have any objection and also whether I should offer to share the expense with him.

Answer: Evidently your friend told her fiancé that you were coming, and quite likely even suggested that he ask you to drive with him. However, if you think his asking you was his own idea, and if you know that her character is a jealous one or that for any other reason she might not like your driving with him alone, then your best excuse would be to tell him you have to go by train because you are unable to leave early enough to make the trip by motor. On the other hand, if you feel that your friend would

Buffer Between Husband, Mother Gets Hard Knocks

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Dorothy Dix—My mother is a middle-aged woman, a widow. She has a house that rents for $40 a month and $5000 in the bank. She complains of ill-health, but we think it is just a mental condition. She has two children, myself and a brother, both married. My husband and I both work. We have tried every way we know to make Mother happy and comfortable without avail. She has been in rooms, has boarded with strangers, has lived with an old lady, has lived with us and we have lived with her, and she is not contented with any of the arrangements. We are at wits' end to know what to do. How much money should my brother and I give her? What is my duty to her as a thankful, appreciative daughter, and yet as a loyal, helpful wife, for my mother objects strenuously to my husband and I pooling our earnings in a common fund? How can I balance home and husband, mother and career without losing my mind?

DOROTHY DIX

Answer: It seems to me that when you have a warped mentality to deal with the only thing to do is to hold fast to your own sanity and do what you know to be the sensible thing. Evidently your mother is one of the querulous, ill-balanced, neurotic, selfish women whom nobody on earth can please and who would not be satisfied and contented under any condition, so it is folly for you to wear yourself out in the vain attempt to make her happy.

She doesn't want to be happy. She wants something to complain about, some grievance to whine over, and she gets a sadistic pleasure in making other people as wretched as she thinks she is herself. Nearly every family has that kind of killjoy in it, and it is a tribute to human nature that they are borne with so patiently instead of being throttled, as they deserve to be.

Your mother's grievance now is that her children married and her home is broken up, and so she is trying to break up your home and dissatisfy you with your husband and make you feel that he isn't dealing fairly with you on the money question—though the fifty-fifty joint checking arrangement is generally considered to be an equitable way of settling the money problem between husbands and wives.

Under such circumstances, when your mother is always fault-finding and pecking at your husband and your husband naturally resents it, it will be disastrous for you to have her as a member of your household. So the best arrangement you can make is just to make her a monthly allowance and let her live where she pleases. If she has $40 a month from rent, it would require only a modest sum from you and your brother to make her comfortable. She will be far better off among strangers than she will be with either of you children because she will have to control herself when with others.

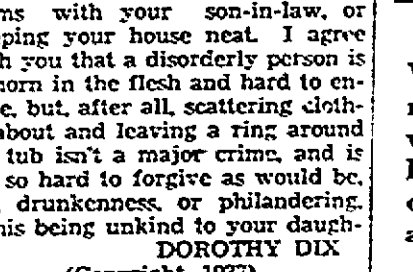

Probably all of her ill-health is imaginary. Why don't you have a competent physician make a thorough examination of her, so that you will know whether you have cause to be really anxious about her or are worrying unnecessarily? But you have my sincere sympathy. A woman who has to act as a buffer between her husband and mother gets some mighty hard knocks.

Old Gardener Says:

E. I. Farrington

Most vegetables are benefited by a little feeding at occasional intervals in hot weather. Experts know how to use quick-acting fertilizers like nitrate of soda, but as a rule it is better for the amateur to use a balanced vegetable fertilizer, although a little nitrate of soda will cause the quick growth of lettuce and other leaf crops, which is desirable. Fertilizer applied now should be worked into the soil along the rows and not be permitted to touch the foliage or the stems of the plants, because it is caustic and may cause burning.

MURDER ON THE BLUFF

Chapter 50
MIKE FACES THE TEST
"NOT a lunkhead," Gay said in a withering voice. "Just a moron." Walking back into Higgins' room, she swept the far wall with eager eyes and moved straight to the hole in the plaster. "Here you are, sleuth. Sometime when you're short of cash, why think nothing of his taking you, then certainly tell him that you will go with him with pleasure. The only way you might share the expenses of the trip would be to prepare a lunch box if you are to be on the road over a meal hour. But on no account offer to pay for anything."

Tells Students to Seek Happiness in Personal Growth

Barrows Addresses Minnesota Summer School Graduates

That they should "seek happiness in personal growth of all kinds, but particularly in the development of intellectual power, emotional consciousness, social consciousness, aesthetic appreciation, spiritual understanding and faith," was the advice given to graduates of the summer quarter at the University of Minnesota by Dr. Thomas N. Barrows, president of Lawrence college, at the commencement exercises held there this morning.

"A harmonious personal development is the best security for the individual, and, through the leadership which will surely result, the best security for society," he said.

"This humane security must be sought through decision, initiative, self-discipline, and self-control, the privileges of liberty."

"The growth which is happiness is not like the spontaneous unconscious addition of cell to cell in the development of an animal; it involves choice, freely exercised and freely willed. The judgment and taste of the individual, elaborated by selective intelligence out of flow of past experience, are shaped into a conscious purpose which becomes the mainspring of activity."

Means His Security

"As activity carries through into accomplishment, the fullest self-realization brings about happiness. In the properly educated person this self-realization is harmonious with his environment. His own happiness and his social effectiveness are interactive and mutually sustaining. His liberty is the means not only of his own security, but of that of his fellows, for in his free self-directed activity is the source of genuine and dependable character."

"The social principles which make a nation strong and good are not those proclaimed in manifestos by dictators, but those which have been evolved by the people themselves in the course of independent, aggressive action and experience. This is the essence of democracy and I have faith enough in the free democratic ideal to be willing to work for its preservation."

"Democracy will not be safe if and when there is a 'chicken in every pot,' or even when we have a 'more abundant life' in purely material terms. At least democracy will not be safe with these attainments alone. We all want and shall have a higher standard of living in this country, but it must be measured in broad concepts, including a wider distribution of the non-material benefits."

Love of Liberty

"And high among these must be a love of liberty, so strongly entrenched that it will withstand pressure propaganda and fear. It is quite possible that this love of liberty can be so dulled in a generation or two that it will lose its vitality and we shall lose the fruits of three hundred years' constant growth; it has happened in less than a generation in Russia and Japan, in Germany and Italy. Let us not permit it to happen here, but rather cherish passionately the love of liberty which we have inherited, and seek our security in it.

"The argument which I am urging on you to distinguish between two kinds of security may seem to involve a very fine point, but that point is not negligible; it is quite fundamental, in the conduct of our personal and professional lives, we are constantly tempted to relax into the conventional, the secure, the easy."

"Yet if we have had any genuine experience of learning, if we have really lived the intellectual life, even for a brief period, and in a limited area of knowledge, we know what intensity of effort, what constant renewal of initiative and purpose, what independent adventures of ideas, what original reconstruction are required of us."

Arduous Progress

And we know that this arduous progress is the good life, the life in which we develop and realize ourselves as human beings. However, its difference from the life of inertia, the mechanical acceptance of conventional routines and values is a subtle one, and to the careless observer the real distinction between the uneducated and the educated man may be unapparent."

"The life of liberal learning does not add cubits to our stature, nor does it always put money in our purses. Yet you know what education has done for you, what difference it has made, how it has enlarged all the horizons of experience and made life infinitely richer and more significant. You know too what obligation to live at your best, to grow, to judge, to produce, to lead, is laid upon you by your attainment of the real maturity of the educated adult."

"We have developed a kind of leadership in business, science and politics. But our technical advances, capacity for business organization, and economic production have far outstripped our moral capacity to control these advances. It is through education that we must seek our new leadership, leadership with the capacity for broad synthesis in all phases of living and thinking."

and my father would have been sent back where he belonged."

It took me fully 10 seconds to get my breath. "You think your father's presence caused all this?"

"It must have. It was the only unusual thing that I can think of."

Michael crushed his barely lighted cigarette. I studied his face.

"Do you think that also explains Higgins' extraordinary behavior?"

"No." The face was cloudy. "Damn it, it doesn't explain anything, Jim, what could have ailed him?"

"You've got me, Mike," I said truthfully. "Has it occurred to you that there's something mighty peculiar about the way Higgins died?"

He whirled on me. "What do you mean?"

"Well," I was picking my words with care, "when a bullet goes through a man's head, it lands somewhere. Of course, the police will be better than I was, but I'll be damned if I can find it anywhere."

His eyes were boring into my face. "Are you sure it went through?"

tainment of the real maturity of the educated adult."

"We have developed a kind of leadership in business, science and politics. But our technical advances, capacity for business organization, and economic production have far outstripped our moral capacity to control these advances. It is through education that we must seek our new leadership, leadership with the capacity for broad synthesis in all phases of living and thinking."

"Positive. There's a mark where it went in and a gash where it came out."

I delivered the end of that sentence to an empty room. Michael had started for Higgins' door, and if he got a glimpse of the face under that blanket before I had staggered, it was all over. Everything I had went into the sprint that brought me up to him just as he halted at the side of the bed. Two seconds later and I would not have been in time to grab the hand he reached toward the blanket.

Masterly Acting, Or—

"Don't, Mike. It's—pretty bad."

Ordinarily, wild courses couldn't have stopped him. Was it exhaustion or was it guilt in his face and trembling hands?

"Perhaps—you're right." His voice was muffled. There was a silence and then he straightened up. "All we have to do is reconstruct the scene. He must have been either on the bed or beside it—unless someone moved him. Did anyone touch him?"

"Not so far as I know," I said in the steadiest voice I could muster. "Then he must have been doing one of the two. That means that the bullet—" His eyes turned to the far wall and picked out the splotch in the plaster immediately. His voice stopped. The next instant his grasp on my arm made me wince. "What the devil is the big idea?"

I was fighting to keep my voice down. "What do you mean?"

"That bullet is right where it should be. What kind of damned stunt is this?"

I shook him off. "I don't know what you're talking about," I grated.

"There isn't any bullet. I've been over this door a dozen times—even moved the bed and looked in the hall. If you find anything, you're better than I am!"

There was an awful moment of silence, and then Michael began to chuckle—a chuckle that sent the blood back into my singing head.

"Jimmie—" he said. "Jimmie—you're a dud! Higgins was—oh, Lord!—left-handed! Look." He pointed to the far wall. "Here's your bullet, right where it ought to be."

Either I was witnessing some masterly acting or Michael had no conception of the state in which the body had been found. I stared at that tiny section of cracked plaster as if I had never seen it before in my life.

"Come along," he said at last. "You need food!"

If my little attempt did nothing else, it had at least restored Michael to a good humor. He was still chuckling when we reached the stairs.

"Go look after your love-life," I said. "I'll get the aunt. I'll cough when—"

"It won't be necessary," said Michael, clattering down the stairs. M. Farrington alone remained, and I rather relished the idea of an encounter with the irascible old lady. I knocked on her door and called. "It's Jimmie, Aunt Martha."

There was a slight pause and then a truculent voice said, "Come in."

Aunt Martha depicts the death scene in Higgins' room, tomorrow.

the WORLD of STAMPS

BY QUINTON JAMES

A picture of Mohammed Zahir Shah, king of the Afghans, appears for the first time on the postal paper of his country with the issuance of a 50-pool violet and brown adhesive thought to commemorate either the fourth year of his reign or his coronation. The photograph of the king is so poorly reproduced that it is hard to tell what he looks like. He seems to wear a beard.

The king's head, in a medallion at the right, is lithographed in brown; the rest of the stamp is violet. The left medallion carries a view of Independence monument in Kabul, which has been illustrated on at least four previous stamps.

This monument was erected after the Afghan war of 1919 in memory of Nadir Khan's capture of Talaan event which the British question.

Zahir Shah was born at Kabul in 1914. He came to the throne at the age of 13 when his father, Nadir Khan, was assassinated. He was 8, 1932. Two years before he had married his cousin, Umaid, the daughter of Sirdar Ahmad Shah Khan. They now have two sons and two daughters.

Afghanistan is that rugged, mountainous land above the Khyber pass, with borders touching Iran, India and Soviet Russia. About 6,500,000 people live there.

Five More Coronation Sets
Coronation sets have recently been received from the dominions of New Zealand and South Africa, from the mandated territories of Southwest Africa and Nauru, and from the island of Niue.

The New Zealand set of three large stamps resembles those for the colonies, with heads of both king and queen. Denominations: penny rose carmine, 2-p dark blue, 6-p orange. This set has been overprinted NIUE in black.

The South African set of five, printed in both English and Afrikaans, consists of: 1-penny green and black, 1-p carmine rose and black, 1-p green and orange, 3-p ultramarine, 1-shilling blue and reddish brown. The design includes a sculptured head of the king, ornate border and crown at upper left corner.

On the Southwest African set of eight, the king's head is framed in sugarbush leaves. The central medallion is in black. Border colors and values are: 1-p green, 1-6 carmine, 1-p orange, 2-p brown, 3-p blue, 4-p violet, 6-p yellow, 1-shilling gray.

Nauru's set of four is simply designed, lacking all border and ornamentation. The king's head appears against a plain shaded background. Values: 1-p scarlet, 2-p orange, 2-p blue, 1-shilling purple brown.

For Nippon Aviation
Japan has joined the long list of countries which issue semi-postals, by putting out a set of three patriotic aviation stamps June 1. The extra revenue is to be used to develop the air service in the Land of the Rising Sun.

The single design shows a large Douglas-type passenger plane flying over the Japan Alps. Two characters of the lower right corner stand for

State University Head Invited to Speak Here

An invitation has been extended to Clarence Dykstra, new president of the University of Wisconsin to speak at a forum meeting of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce with local service clubs, according to Kenneth Corbett, chamber secretary. The chamber sponsors three forum meetings each year with the service clubs and prominent speakers are engaged to deliver addresses at the sessions.

Hollywood News And Gossip

BY ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood—Edward Everett Horton has had a reprieve. His prospective heartbreak has been eased. For a while yet his listening ear will be soothed by the music of hammer and saw.

For Eddie things looked sad for a time there. With increasing apprehension he had been waiting for the final blow of the hammer which would proclaim the end of his most colossal private production. Eddie's Enigma estate, his enormous toy and his joy of life, would be finished. There would be no more rooms to add, no more ells to tack on, no more trees to plant, just nothing more to do.

Horton's estate has been in process of construction these many years. Throughout the depression he kept a crew of carpenters busy doing things to it. It is one of the colony's show places—a large rambling affair, furnished and decorated with authentic art objects and authentic reproductions of those he couldn't obtain in the originals. He has no sales resistance.

But within a month the end would have come. There would have been no more putting to do, no more conferences with architects and decorators. The sky was dark and the goose hung low. Then in the nick of time, galloping on thundering hoofs like a western hero came an idea.

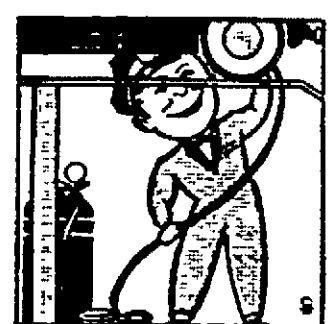

Telling about it, he lets his enthusiasm crackle through his make-up, and even in the elegant knee breeches of a "Great Garrick" character he looks the role of modern, inveterate country gentleman. He found the eight-acre plot adjoining his own available. He bought it. Already he is planning and plotting. First enterprise will be "a most pretentious barn." After that—but with eight acres in which to expand, why worry about the future?

If Hal Roach missed on previous attempts at Class A features, "Topper" atones. It puts the former two-reel king in the big time, tossing reason and sanity overboard with a merry ha-ha, a sophisticated giggle, and the most convincing technical tricks yet seen on the screen. The late Thorne Smith wrote it, and the picture for the first time translates his humor to celluloid, which means that if you believe ghosts should be serious you'd better stay away. Roland Young is tops as "Topper." Constance Bennett and Cary Grant (aided by technical man Roy Seal-

"patriotism." In size, the stamps are large, upright rectangles. Denominations: 2 plus 2-ten, rose carmine; 3 plus 2-ten, dull violet; 4 plus 2-ten, green.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

BY HOWARD BLAKESLEE

Pittsburgh—(AP)—Heavy ice, made by freezing heavy water, has found its first practical use.

It is a good target to shoot at—with an atom gun. One of these guns is made by setting a positive and negative electrode so that there is a high difference in potential between them.

If electrified atoms are fed to one electrode they shoot like bullets against the other electrode. Ice is not a good electrode. But the heavy ice is so used by freezing a thin layer of heavy water over a metal electrode.

The atomic bullets used to shoot at heavy ice are heavy hydrogen particles, the stuff which makes heavy water when combined with oxygen. The result of hits on the ice is nice stream of neutrons, an atomic particle used by physicists to investigate the structure of matter.

C. M. Slack and L. F. Ehrke of the Westinghouse Company tell of the new ice gun in the Review of Scientific Instruments.

COLLECTING LIQUID RUBBER ON FIRESTONE PLANTATIONS IN LIBERIA
An ever-increasing supply of rubber comes from these plantations. Savings made by controlling raw materials and by more efficient manufacturing and distribution make extra value possible at no extra cost.

Extra Safe
BECAUSE in Firestone Standard Tires—
YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST BLOWOUTS—eight extra pounds of rubber are added to every 100 pounds of cord by the Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process. By this process every fiber in every cord in every ply is saturated with liquid rubber. This counteracts dangerous internal friction and heat that ordinarily cause blowouts.
YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST PUNCTURES—because under the tread are two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords.
YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST SKIDDING—because the tread is scientifically designed.
YOU GET LONGER NON-SKID MILEAGE because of the extra tough, long-wearing tread.

Twin City Teams Renew Rivalry in Game on Sunday

Merchants and Eagles to Battle in League Encounter

Neenah—Neenah and Menasha will renew athletic rivalry when the Merchants and Eagles cross bats in a Northern Valley league contest at 2:15 Sunday afternoon at Washington park, Neenah.

Delinquent Taxes May Help Pay for New Courthouse

Hear Report on Bids on $550,000 Issue of Bonds

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau Oshkosh — If and when delinquent taxes due Winnebago county are collected, the new million dollar courthouse will be paid for from this money and the taxpayers eventually will not have to pay an additional amount, questioning by R. M. Heckner, Menasha supervisor, revealed at the session of the Winnebago county board this morning.

The adjourned May session opened this morning with 43 supervisors present and 1 absent.

J. F. Shea, chairman, announced he had appointed a special committee to work with WPA authorities on purchase of equipment needed for a tax survey, explained at the last session by Alders Jenks, district supervisor. The committee includes John Moore, J. H. Tank and Van E. Jackson.

Cornerstone Laying

Chairman Shea also announced the laying of the cornerstone will take place at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon July 29.

A petition presented and filed on behalf of Matthew Rounds, bailiff of circuit court, who stated because of being paid on a per diem basis with much of the court work formerly handled by circuit court now included in municipal court, his income was not sufficient to meet his needs. Before being bailiff, Rounds served on the county board and several terms as sheriff.

A communication from the state highway commission signed by T. J. Pattison, chairman, informed the board the county trunk system has been recently changed to include an addition to the highway in the town of Algoma near the west limits of Oshkosh as well as an addition of 2.8 miles in the town of Poygan.

Refer Bills

Bills for $702.31 of Paul Neubauer sheriff, and $10 each of Dr. A. G. Koehler and Dr. E. B. Pfefferkorn, for testimony on a recent inquest, involving the death of Mrs. Andrew Fish before a coroner's jury were referred to the sheriff and coroner's committee.

Report of the finance committee signed by J. F. Ulrich, advised letting of $550,000 bond of courthouse and jail bonds to the low bidder, the Halsey Stuart company and the T. J. Joiner company, at an interest rate of 2 per cent and a premium of $1.65.

When the report was accepted, Mr. Ulrich told Supervisor Henry Schultz, Neenah, the bonds run until 1948, in answer to a query by C. O. Allen, asking for expert information on the matter, Chairman Shea stated the resolution had this date.

Reads Resolution

County Clerk Hedke then read the resolution, providing for $550,000 worth of bonds, interest payable semi-annually, with a sufficient general tax to be levied. He explained that $50,000 in bonds would be due each year. Provision was made for a general tax levy sufficient to take care of yearly principle and interest.

Interest and principle payable yearly ranges from $66,000 in 1937 to $50,500 in 1947. It was provided that when an insufficient amount is in the fund, needed finances could be taken from the general fund to be replaced later. E. F. Dornbrook, Menasha supervisor, inquired why the bonds all came due at one time, Chairman Shea stated the bond house demanded this procedure. Supervisor Heckner was told the net cost to Winnebago county would amount to $50,000 a year, plus interest.

Notice of Sale of Bonds

Notice of the sale of the bonds will be effective 30 days after publication in the official paper. County Clerk Hedke said the net cost of interest to the county was $76,000 making a total of $624,349 for the courthouse and jail bonds. Supervisor Heckner reminded the board that County Treasurer Earl Fuller had estimated delinquent tax payments would average about $50,000 a year.

"If the plan works out," said Supervisor Heckner, "taxpayers of the county will not have to be taxed and additional dime." Heckner warned the board about being too generous when different plans were offered to waive interest and principle on delinquent taxes.

Rotary Club Hears

Report on Jamboree

Menasha—A report on the national jamboree of Boy Scouts held at Washington, D. C., recently was given by J. Wesley Olsen, scoutmaster of troop No. 9, at a meeting of the Menasha Rotary club yesterday noon in Hotel Menasha.

Three of the scouts from the troop who attended the jamboree, Tom Kolasiński, Herbert Hartung, and Waldo Friedland, Jr., each related their most interesting experience during the gathering.

Billy Spengler, Jr., one of the scouts who camped at Washington, went on to Europe to attend the International Jamboree in Holland, June 1937.

THEY'RE HAPPY AFTER DEMOCRATIC LEADERSHIP CAUCUS. Senator Alben W. Barkley, of Kentucky, (left) and Senator Pat Harrison (right), of Mississippi, put aside their rivalry after the Kentuckian had been selected as majority leader of the Senate in a Democratic caucus. They are shown a few minutes after the election with Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada, president pro tempore of the Senate.

Sanford Elected As Commander of Clintonville Vets

New Boy Scout Committee Also Named at Legion Meeting

Clintonville — S. H. Sanford was elected commander of the Oscar J. Tillison post of the American Legion at the annual election of officers Tuesday evening at Knights of Columbus hall. He will succeed Earl Moldenhauer, who served as commander during the last year. Others chosen to office are: Kenneth Darling, first vice commander; Miles Dempsey, second vice commander; Dr. Irving Auld, adjutant; Eric Peterson, finance officer. Mr. Sanford and Dr. Auld were named delegates to the state Legion convention at Milwaukee in August. W. T. Luedke and Leonard Manser were chosen alternates.

Boy Scout troop committee was appointed for the ensuing year: Dr. H. A. Schenkel, chairman; Dr. Robert Braun, Eric Peterson and Leonard Manser. The American Legion sponsors Troop No. 24 of this city of which Lester Osterloth is scoutmaster.

On Wednesday evening the Legion post entertained the Boy Scouts at a supper at the Lions clubhouse on Long lake. This meeting gave the scouts an opportunity to become acquainted with their new committee members. The boys hiked out to the clubhouse in the afternoon and spent the time before supper at swimming.

The Lions worked around the clubhouse at their weekly meeting there on Tuesday evening. The members are engaged in painting the outside of the building and in cleaning up around the grounds.

Miss Helen Hauer was hostess to 16 guests at a 6:30 dinner Tuesday evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Hauer. Bridge followed the meal and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Kenneth Spearbaker, Mrs. Ralph Laney and Mrs. Edward Schmidke.

Mrs. George Laabs entertained eight guests at a 1 o'clock luncheon followed by bridge Tuesday afternoon at her home on E. Eleventh street. Mrs. Harold Olk, Mrs. W. L. Gould and Mrs. John Goodrich won high honors.

Mr. and Mrs. John Goodrich, who recently returned from their honeymoon trip through the west, are visiting at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Kowalsky in this city. They will soon move to Appleton, where Mr. Goodrich holds a position as history teacher in the high school.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lang and daughter, Virginia, accompanied by Mrs. Gilbert Buckbee and daughter LaVerne spent Monday and Tuesday at Madison and Milwaukee. While in Madison, they made arrangements for the entrance of Virginia Lang and LaVerne Buckbee to the University of Wisconsin for the fall term. Both girls are graduates of Clintonville high school with the class of 1937.

Miss Hope Durant and Richard Kamin of Milwaukee visited Tuesday and Wednesday at the home of the former's sister, Mrs. Roy Martin and family in this city. They were accompanied here by the former's niece, Miss Hope Martin, who spent the last two weeks at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Martin, returned to Milwaukee on Wednesday afternoon with the former two.

Says Wisconsin A. F. L.

Chiefs 'in Wrong Camp'

Milwaukee — "Frank Rosenblum of Chicago, western regional director of the Textile Workers Organizing committee, told a national labor relations board hearing yesterday he believes Wisconsin American Federation of Labor leaders 'are in the wrong camp.'"

The labor board is hearing a petition of a Committee for Industrial Organization union to be declared bargaining agent for 10,000 workers at the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company, opposing the position is an independent and several A. F. of L. unions.

"The A. F. of L. leaders have been jealously guarding their own craft lines, which prevents them from functioning," said Rosenblum. "I believe the A. F. of L. leaders in this state are in the wrong camp. I rather expected them to be with us. Their labor philosophy is closer to industrial unionism than to craft unionism."

Here's Possible Reason Why Barkley Won Contest

Washington—Political coincidences—which make whole pictures in the perspective of time—cropped up in the senate leadership contest.

Flip back the calendar: Years ago a Mississippi judge named Edwin R. Holmes sent Theodore G. Bilbo to jail for 10 days on contempt of court charges.

Years later Bilbo came to Washington as junior senator from the deep south state—colleague of that veteran Democrat, Pat Harrison.

Then came January, 1936. Senator Harrison was urging the nomination of the same Judge Holmes for the fifth circuit court of appeals.

Spoke up Senator Bilbo from the quiet of the sidelines: "I can't travel with a colleague who wants to cram down my throat a man who put me in jail for political reasons."

The senate overwhelmingly confirmed Judge Holmes' nomination. Came the 1936 elections and Bilbo went all the way back to Mississippi to fight Harrison's re-election, but he didn't defeat him.

Then yesterday came the Democratic vote for a senate leader. It was a contest between Pat Harrison and Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky.

The result: Barkley—38; Harrison—37.

One more vote would have elected Harrison. Bilbo cast his vote for Barkley, to whom he said he had pledged support when the late Senator Robinson was being discussed for a supreme court appointment.

"Senator Harrison was not being talked of at that time," said Bilbo.

Cities Need to Educate Youth On Conservation

New Member of Board to Propose Enlargement Of Program

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—The future success of the state's conservation efforts lies in the education of today's children in the aims and purposes of conservation work, according to R. H. Fischer, Shawano, secretary of the state conservation commission.

Fischer, appointed to the commission three weeks ago, outlined in an interview here the plans he will try to carry out during his term of six years on that body.

His first effort, he said, will be to propose an expansion of a youth conservation education program, with the cooperation of the state department of public instruction, and the public school system. "We must start with the youngsters. The oldsters grew up in age of plenty, and it's hard to educate them in conservation. We must teach the school children the value and the beauty of natural resources: the forests, waters, fish and game animals," he declared.

Propose Enlargement

Pointing out that the state conservation department has already begun this work, he said he will propose an extensive enlargement of the program.

Fischer discussed his plans with John Callahan, state superintendent of schools, during his visit to Madison this week. "I was a teacher at one time, and I know that young people can be taught in this subject. If we reach them now they won't grow up to be game law violators," he added.

The Shawano commissioner also explained that he will attempt to continue experiments in new methods of fish planting. His own work on his private preserve, he said, has shown that the system heretofore followed of planting fingerlings and fry, is not wholly satisfactory.

Fischer believes that the conservation department should distribute fingerlings of all species to local rearing ponds where they may be raised to a size when they may be planted safely. At present, he declared, too few of the fingerlings survive.

More Education

Public education can also be carried much farther, Fischer believes. Pointing to his own county, where several thousand sportsmen have already joined conservation clubs, and where the county government has established a county park where native birds, fish and animals are on exhibit and draw many visitors, he recommended that such activities be made state wide.

"All counties and cities could well afford to maintain such exhibits and by doing so would carry forward the conservation movement," he said.

Fischer is a prominent Shawano county conservationist, is a practicing lawyer, editor, and leading county spokesman for the Progressive party.

Deaf Mute Held After Her Rescue From River

Dubuque, Iowa—A 16-year-old deaf mute who said she was Aurelia Matzek of Elkhorn, Wis., was detained by police here today following her rescue yesterday from the Mississippi river after she had leaped 75 feet into the water from Eagle Point bridge.

Daniel O'Connell, Waterloo, Iowa, salesman, asked police to search for the girl when she drove away in his car after he had picked her up as a hitch-hiker in Mason City, Iowa, earlier in the day. She took the car, he said, when he left it to call on a business firm here.

Police said they sighted the girl at the approach to the bridge. She had stalled the engine and when she saw the police approaching she fled toward the center of the bridge and jumped.

Women of 2 Church Organizations Give Summer Benefit Event

Menasha — While most of the church organizations have their benefit parties in the fall and winter season, two women's organizations of St. Thomas Episcopal church, the Altar Guild and St. Anne's Guild, undertook an experiment in summer benefit entertaining last night and rated it a success.

About 100 persons attended the garden party given by the two groups at the Chester Sheppard home at the end of Nicolet boulevard, and many more tickets were sold to persons who were unable to be present. Box lunches were served to the persons who attended the party, and they scattered over the terrace and along the lake front to eat them. On the committee which made arrangements for the affair were Mrs. Chester Sheppard, Mrs. Wesley Cook, Miss Virginia Beals, Mrs. J. M. Klinker, Mrs. E. J. Aylward and Mrs. Silas Spengler.

Editorial Association Visits Resort Areas

Detroit—The National Editorial association ceased discussions of freedom of the press and other newspaper topics today to enjoy Michigan's northern resort areas.

With business sessions completed, delegates departed by special train for a four-day trip through lake shore districts and Mackinac island.

The convention last night approved a recommendation that the N. E. A. accept an invitation to join the 'newspaper committee' in its campaign against the closed editorial shop. The recommendation was passed on to the N. E. A. board of trustees for action.

Visiting Pontiac, the delegates heard yesterday from William S. Knudsen, president of General Motors corporation, that current labor troubles should end shortly.

"I worked for 15 years as a shop steward," Knudsen said. "and I think I know the feelings and the problems of the average industrial worker."

The convention approved recommendations for dues adjustments permitting N. E. A. affiliation to state press associations. Sponsors said this may double N. E. A. membership.

Resident Engineer Completes Work and Leaves Today

Neenah—Final payment on the new Neenah water plant was authorized by the waterworks commission at a meeting held last night in city hall. The work was done by the Hutter Construction company of Fond du Lac.

V. R. Kneer, resident engineer, who has been at the plant since it was completed and put in operation, will leave today for Chicago. His work at the plant has been completed.

The commission authorized the installation of water mains on W. Adams street, Higgins avenue and Riverlawn avenue. The method of financing the installation will be discussed with the city council at its next session. No funds are available for the work in the commission's budget.

Commissioners also discussed insurance for the new water plant and discussed the relative merits of electric and oil heating with a committee from the Wisconsin Michigan Power company.

Fox Squirrels and Silver-Tails

With a length of about two feet (half of it tail), the fox squirrel ranks as the largest member of its family on this continent. It also seems to be the best fighter, and is not in such danger from hawks as other squirrels.

The red squirrel may be "a better fighter for its size," but it is only half as large, and is not nearly so strong.

Walnuts, chestnuts, butternuts, acorns and hickory nuts are food for the fox squirrels. They also eat beetles and grub-worms when they can get nothing better. Sometimes they go into cornfields, and eat growing corn.

When storing nuts for the winter, fox squirrels place them in little "pockets" they dig in the ground, or under a small heap of leaves. The usual custom is to place only one nut in each "pocket."

Fox squirrels have been observed "licking" the nuts before placing them in pockets. It is supposed that this gives the nuts a special smell, and helps the squirrels to locate them when they want to dig them up.

For their nests in hollow trees, fox squirrels have been observed "doorways" only about three inches wide. This guards their homes

A Fox Squirrel

Red squirrels range through nearly all of Canada, and are found in most northern and eastern parts of the United States. Fox squirrels live more toward the south. Their homeland is chiefly between the Gulf of Mexico and the Great Lakes. They are found as far east as a Rhode Island, as far west as Nebraska.

Conservation and Game Club Groups Invited to Meet

Sportsmen Asked to Discuss Flood Control With City Officials

Kaukauna — Conservation and game clubs from all cities in the Fox and Wolf River valleys will be invited to attend the meeting of the Fox and Wolf River Conservation association at Kaukauna at 8:30 Monday night in the Municipal building.

Formed at a meeting called early in the month in Oshkosh for representatives of valley cities, the association favors the Ferguson plan for controlling the water flow through the Fox and Wolf rivers and for regulating the level of Lake Winnebago. A communication received by Alderman Walter Cooper early this week outlines the new association's purposes.

List Purposes

The plan the group is backing calls for the deepening of the river alleys and the lowering of the level of Lake Winnebago 25 feet. Points on the group's program are: conserving natural resources; improving sanitary conditions; improving drinking water; reclaiming riparian lands; controlling floods; conservation of fish and the improvement of navigation.

Mayor Lewis E. Nelson, in favor of the flood control program, having spoken in the support of the association at the recent meeting of the city council.

"Kaukauna has always prospered in its water power," he said. "If this plan is carried out the utility will have to buy less power than it does now, and our mills will have a constant supply." He urged city officials to attend the meeting Monday.

Deepen Channels

Deepening of river channels and lowering of the lake level is favored in the Ferguson plan to facilitate flood control. According to the plan reservoirs would be built in the head waters of the Wolf river north of Antigo, so that the spring flood water could be held back and released as it is needed during the summer. The lower level of Lake Winnebago would make it possible for the lake to receive more flood waters in spring without inundating riparian lands that border it.

Rejection by the federal government of a plan to build reservoirs in the Wolf river system occurred early this year, but another hearing will be held by federal government engineers in Washington in September, and the association hopes to receive favorable action in the Ferguson plan then.

Motorists Fined In Justice Court

Kaukauna — Three visiting motorists were arrested yesterday by Kaukauna police for traffic law violations on Crooks avenue and all appeared in justice court and paid fines. Those arrested were:

F. W. Gerber, South Bend, Ind., paid a fine of $5 and costs of $4.75 in Justice Abe Goldin's court yesterday on charge of speeding.

J. A. Vandenberg, route 4, Appleton, paid a fine of $5 and costs in Justice Goldin's court Tuesday on charge of reckless driving.

A. B. Solon, Madison, paid a fine of $5 and costs in Justice Goldin's court Tuesday on a charge of speeding.

The Kaukauna office of the Appleton Post-Crescent is located in the Jules Mertens barbershop on Wisconsin avenue. James Lang is the correspondent in charge and the telephone number is 107. Subscribers may call this number until 6:30 in the evening if their papers were not delivered.

Block Pitches No-Hit, No-Run Softball Game

Kaukauna — George Block pitched a no-hit no-run game last night as Thilmans defeated the Ritz tavern team 5-0 in the Twilight Softball league at the library grounds.

This was Block's fourth no-hitter in his career on the softball diamond, as he has turned the trick once before in a Kaukauna Twilight league, once against Manitowish in the state softball league several years ago, and once when he twirled for Spilker's Bakery in an Appleton league.

With the exception of the fifth inning, when Thilmans got all of their five runs, the game was a nip and tuck pitcher's battle. Billy Alger, on the mound for the new Ritz outfit, was nicked for five hits in the disastrous fifth, but allowed only three more in the rest of the game as he struck out 10.

Block used a lot of steam in accomplishing the no-hit feat, and his fast ones got away from him on a couple of occasions, as he walked five. Ten men who faced him went down on strikes. Clayton Kille led the Thilmans' batters with three hits in four trips to the plate.

Tonight's battle will have the first place Pantry Lunch team of the first half of the league playing the Kemke team, which finished in the lower brackets of the first round play.

Social Items

Kaukauna — Observing the seventy-eighth birthday anniversary today of Mrs. H. S. Cooke, two of her daughters, Miss Adeline of Birmingham, Mich., and Mrs. George G. Wood, Appleton, entertained at a tea and thimble party for 25 guests at the Cooke residence, 302 Catherine street, this afternoon.

Out of city guests at the party included Mrs. Richard Radtch and Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson and Mrs. Pauline Kirkwood, Appleton; Mrs. B. Thackaray, Glenbula.

Forty guests attended the pre-nuptial shower held in honor of Miss Jean Specht, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Specht, 423 W. Sixth street, at the Specht home Tuesday night. It was a miscellaneous shower.

Prizes in sheephead played at the affair were won by Mrs. Norman Gerhart and Mrs. Herman Dolven. Bridge prizes were won by Mrs. Anton Rieth and Mrs. Margaret Case, in 500-rummy by Mrs. William Hermes, Little Chute and Mrs. Leo Melchoir.

Miss Specht will be married in the near future to Curtis Wolf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Wolf, 226 Amanda street.

Kaukauna B. P. O. E. 962 will hold their regular business meeting tonight at the Elks' hall, East Second street.

New industries are welcomed. When in Kaukauna visit the historical Grignon mansion, built in 1836." Five thousand of these napkins were taken along and handed out at the buffet luncheon last night at the Hotel La Salle.

The men making the trip were J. W. Weyenberg, C. P. Goetzman, Joseph Sadlier, H. A. Baier, Earl Mollet and Arthur Monagan. At the convention they joined Luke Van Lieshout, Kaukauna delegate for the 4-day gathering.

Legion Has Not Taken Any Stand On Ice House Fire

Kaukauna — New statements concerning the Flynn ice house fire July 5 were made today following the publication of a statement yesterday which quoted Mrs. William Flynn, wife of the ice house operator, as saying "At first the Legion would not take the blame for the fire, but now I understand they are willing to admit it."

Mrs. Flynn and Arthur Kromer, commander of Post No. 41, Kaukauna American Legion, made their positions clear with statements on the fire today.

"There is a misunderstanding in the quotation published yesterday," Mrs. Flynn said. "We have only heard that the Legion, of which Mr. Flynn is a member, is going to do something about the fire, but this is only a report and nothing official from the legion."

Kromer explained the legion's stand on the matter when he said, "The legion has made no such statement, as was quoted yesterday, and if any individual member has made such a statement, he did so without any authority from the post."

The legion will meet Aug. 3 to discuss the fire problem, Kromer said.

from larger-sized enemies, such as the owl.

A relative of the fox squirrel is known as the "canyon fox squirrel" also as the "Arizona gray squirrel." It likes to be near running water, and makes its home in deep river valleys or canyons.

Canyon fox squirrels spend most of their time in and about pine trees. They eat the seeds of pine cones, also acorns, walnuts and berries.

Another squirrel which likes pine trees is known as "silver-tail" or as "the tassel-eared squirrel." The name of silver-tail comes from the white coloring of the lower side of the tail. As the animal runs or bounds along the ground, it raises its tail, making the white hair easy for a person to see.

In writing about the food habits of silver-tail, Dr. E. A. Mearns reported:

"I have never seen this squirrel engaged in hoarding up food. The stores saved by the Mexican woodpecker are taken by it whenever found. The woodpecker and the squirrel have quarrels over the stealing of nuts which the woodpecker has stored in the pine bark. They scold each other soundly."

Corn Prices Down Sharply in Late Chicago Trading

Wheat Values Also Lose Heavily as Result Of Plunge

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN
Associated Press Market Editor

Chicago—(AP)—Big tumbles of corn prices late today, more than 54 cents a bushel, plunged wheat values also heavily down grade. The break in the corn market which had a disturbing effect on other grains was in response to a surprise in the form of posting of notices to deliver about 600,000 bushels of the grain on Chicago July contracts. Such a quantity of corn was not believed to be available for tender. Reports of available supplies of corn here have been misleading in that they did not include all elevator holdings including grain of foreign origin.

At the close, Chicago corn futures were 1/2 to 5 cents under yesterday's finish, July 1.12-1.12 1/2, Sept. 1.02-1.02 1/2, Dec. 76 1/4, wheat 3 1/4 cents down, Sept. 1.18 1/2, Dec. 1.20 1/4, and oats 1 1/4 off.

Hamiltons Win From Bordens in Industrial Loop

Winners Pound Wells for 16 Hits, Nader Allows Only 4

INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE

Millers High Lites	2 0
Plywoods	1 1
Gehrkes	1 1
Hamiltons	1 1
Bordens	0 2
Edisons	0 0

New London — Pounding Wells for 16 hits while their pitcher, Charlie Nader, held the Bordens to 4 safeties, the Hamilton squad came away with a 9 to 4 victory in an industrial league softball game under the lights at the city ball park last night. While the Bordens tagged along to keep the score even up to the fifth inning, the Krautners stepped ahead with four runs in the sixth.

Because of the Wolf Valley league play-off game with Waupaca and the Knapstein Brews here tomorrow night, the regular softball game between the Edisons and the Millers High Lites will be held under the lights this evening. Four teams in the Senior Men's league are expected to play at the Washington High school grounds at 6:30 tonight.

Gets Three Hits

Captain Schimke of the Hamilton squad led the slugger with a triple, double and single but Carl Ebert's two triples were more important, his first in the third inning driving in two of the three runs in that inning, the first Kraut scores of the game. He scored himself on his second wallop in the sixth inning. Eddie Beaudoin included a double in his three safeties. Of the Bordens swats, Klundt and Hoffman each scored doubles. Ebert fanned six and walked four while Wells whiffed two and the rest all managed to connect before the count of four. The Krautners erred twice and the condensation boys stumbled only once putting down many runners on bases and retiring the side often with men on.

Since a large number of regular players are out of the city on vacation or otherwise distracted, substitutes are being recruited from the fans or other teams. Last night Ruben Voie appeared for Bordens and Pete Westphal, John Sofia, Sam Hazzar and Victor Barlow for Hamiltons.

Busy Schedule At Conference

Variety of Entertainment Is Offered Group at Clintonville

Clintonville — Branch managers of the Four Wheel Drive Auto company, meeting at the factory this week for their tenth annual conference, found time for relaxation in a variety of entertainment provided for them by their hosts, the office personnel.

A fish supper Monday night at the Log Cabin Inn, 25 miles south of Shawano, was followed Tuesday by an exhibition of motion pictures at the armory featuring the equipment operated by the Halliburton Oil Well Cementing company of Duncan, Oklahoma.

C. P. Parsons, vice president in charge of sales for the Halliburton company, gave a running description of the colorful scenes of Halliburton's fleet of more than 200 FWD trucks in various operations.

Wednesday afternoon at River side Golf club, M. O. Stockland, Jr., assistant FWD export manager, arranged the annual golf tournament between visiting conferees and members of the office personnel. A buffet supper followed tournament play.

Thursday night at Hotel Marson, Colonel Thompson Short, FWD Washington representative, will act as toastmaster, with Fred Rost, associate editor of Business Week magazine, as the principal speaker at the banquet closing the conference.

"Keep Fit." Plea

"You can plant your standard where a standard never flew—if you keep fit on the job!" declared Fred W. Braun, prominent safety engineer, to the FWD Branch Managers' conference, Wednesday morning.

Mr. Braun, vice president of the Employers' Mutuals Insurance Companies at Wausau, Wis., pointed out that trends of today require that employers and employees alike remain fit for their respective jobs.

"I once heard a man say that 'when an employee ceases to be fired with enthusiasm for his job, you should promptly fire him with enthusiasm from his job!'"

"Keeping fit, you will be fired with sufficient enthusiasm, feeling each day that you can be thankful for having a job to do. If you don't get out of your company, and let somebody else have a chance to do the job as it should be done!"

Asserting that it is "better to keep well, than to get well," Mr. Braun advocated regular periodical physical examinations, to keep a man appraised of his true physical condition. Loose living does not build an active brain of muscles, he said. A proper mixture of work, play and relaxation help to keep a man physically fit. "Nobody can stand 24 hours of work every day, seven days a week, or the same amount of play continually, without a mixture of both."

The correct mental attitude of an employee is also an important factor in achieving better work, he continued.
